TROOPS MASSING.

Is Russia Mobilizing Her War Forces?

A Hundred Thousand Men at Interior Points,

While the Frontier Forces Have Not Been Lessened.

The Czar is Evidently Making a Desperate Move.

England May be Forced Into the Triple Alliance to Circumvent Russia's Successful Move on the Dardanelles.

London, Sept. 11.—The number of troops engaged in the Russian army manoeuvres in the governments of Kioff, Podolia and Volhynia, is about one hundred thousand. They are all drawn from the interior and there is no diminution of the great frontier garrison scattered along the Austro-Russian boundary.

The manoevers are attended by the leading military commanders in European Russia, and press representatives, both foreign and native, are excluded.

The St. Petersburg and Moscow newspapers will be supplied by the government with such information as it is thought proper to give. It is known that the manoevres include the feature of educating the troops to familiarity with smokeless powder, and that special attention is given to the efficiency of the new rifle, recently adopted by the czar.

A correspondent who has been visiting the Russian southwestern frontier, at Bessarabia, as far as the Danube, says that troops are rapidly arriving and in large numbers. This would be the base of departure for a Russian army advancing toward the Balkans and Constantinople.

At Tutschkoff four regiments were quartered where last year there were only two.

At Vulkovo and Kilia five regiments had recently arrived, in addition to the men already there.

At Kagul three regiments arrived about as month ago, and at Jaipuch reinforcement of seven thousand men have recently taken up their quarters.

Troops are pouring at the same rate into other villages. These places are of little consequence apart from their situation where an army of invasion would naturally concentrate. In view of these facts the correspondent concludes that Russia intends at no distant date to make a cross of the Danube for Constantinople, and that her preparations show that this time she means to have a force sufficient to overcome all obstacles.

A Russian refugee in London is authority for the statement that the recent report from St. Petersburg of the death of Sophie Gunsberg, the nihilist, is fictitious and that there is good cause to believe the woman has been dead for several months, that she was privately executed in prison in order to prevent any public expression of sympathy, and that the present report has been given currency in order to dispose of troublesome inquiries. This at least, is the general belief of the refugees.

A dispatch from Monaco says the principality was the scene of great rejoicing and a general jubilee, yesterday, on the occasian of the second anniversary of the accession of the reigning Prince Albert. Monte Carlo was gaily decorated, the little army turned out for inspection, and religious services were held.

A Berlin correspondent says that there is a good deal of quiet satisfaction in high quarters with the situation in the Dardanelles and the fact that England which has been holding aloof from the triple alliance, may now have to beg the assistance of the alliance to stop the course taken by Russia. There is no probability, however, that Germany will interfere, as long as the question at issue is confined to the passage of the straits by Russian vessels of war or otherwise.

The plan of the English government for increasing the wages of dockyard employes will involve an additional expenditure of £100,000 a year. Liberal leaders denounce the move as a bribe to the workingmen to vote the conservative ticket.

The vacillation of the trades union congress on the subject of an eight-hour working day has caused unpleasant surprise among the working classes, among whom the sentiment in favor of shorter hours is stronger than the wish for higher wages.

The authorities gathered in a large crop of fines to-day as a result of the riots at Eastbourne in connection with the Salvation army. It is believed that hereafter there will be less disorder.

Schifferstadt, in Rhenish Bavaria, has been nearly destroyed by fire. The disaster originated in the sawmills, and notwithstanding all efforts the flames spread rapidly, converting a flourishing town to ashes.

HE WANTED TO SHOOT.

A Mansfield Watchman Who Will Watch no More.

Mansfield, O., Sept. 11.—A sensational encounter between ex-Marshal H. W. Lemon and Captain of Police Patton, occurred yesterday.

Lemon has been marshal or policeman for over 20 years, but was defeated for renomination as marshal at the late democratic meeting.

He was named for policeman by Mayor Newlon upon the latter's election last April, but the democratic council refused to confirm the appointment of any democrat by a republican mayor.

Later, Lemon was employed as night watchman by a number of business firms.

Lemon and Patton had a controversy over a door which was left open on Lemon's beat, and the latter pulled a revolver on the policeman, who summoned several other officers, who finally disarmed Lemon. It is probable that his career as watchman or policeman will be cut short.

ARRESTED A BAD MAN.

Lewis Remel Again Behind the Bars.

He Is Charged With Having Attempted to Wreck a Lehigh Valley Train Yesterday.

Phillipsburg, N. J., Sept. 11.—Lewis Remel has been arrested on suspicion of having attempted to wreck a train on the Lehigh Valley railroad yesterday. In a trunk belonging to the prisoner was found a quantity of dynamite and other evidence that will probably convict him.

Remel has a bad record. He caused an explosion on the Daniel Drew, on the Hudson in 1879, and after serving a seven years' sentence, wrecked a Delaware & Hudson train at Plattsburg, N. Y., killing several persons. He is also well known as a confidence man.

GOT AWAY JUST IN TIME.

A Fiend Who Came Near Being Lynched.

Louisville, Ky., Sept. 11.—The town of Sellersburg, on the Jeffersonville, Madison & Indianapolis railroad, nine miles from Jeffersonville, is wild with excitement. John Bennett is accused of ravishing two little girls, one named Stockdale, a farmer's daughter aged 14, and a girl named Anna Smith, who worked in the Bennett family.

Mrs. Bennett is away from home and is visiting in Louisville. Last night the Smith girl induced the Stockdale girl to stay over night with her. This morning when the Stockdale girl went home she told her father that she had been outraged. Bennett had, at the point of a pistol forced both children to submit to his wishes. Bennett was taken out and whipped, but managed to escape after a hard struggle. The citizens of the town are after him and if caught he will be lynched.

DIED FROM HIS WOUNDS.

New York, Sept. 11.—A dispatch to the Herald from Granada, Nicaragua, says that Senor Joseph Pasos, who was wounded in the affray of August 22, when the crowd attempted to rescue a number of opposition leaders who had been arrested by order of the government, died yesterday from the effects of his wounds. He was one of the most prominent of the leaders who opposed the present government.

LOADED IN WITH THE COAL.

Montreal, Sept. 11.—The story sent out yesterday that the body found on the steamer Fremont from New Castle was that of a woman was a mistake. The body was that of a man coal trimmer, which was found at the bottom of one of the coal bunkers in a very decomposed state. He is supposed to have been smothered by the coal when they were filling the bunkers in the Tyne river.

CANAL ACROSS CAPE COD.

Sandwich, Mass., Sept. 11.—The people here were not surprised yesterday when the Canadian syndicate failed to deposit the fund for a charter to build a canal across Cape Cod.

The charter now reverts to the old company, provided they deposit $100,000 in the state treasury before November 1. It is understood the work will be begun at once.

PICKED UP AT SEA.

Boston, Sept. 11.—The steamship Georgian which arrived to-day from Liverpool, had on board Capt. Nelson, his wife and two children, and the crew, numbering 25 persons, of the British bark Quebec, which vessel they had abandoned at sea on September 9, dismasted and waterlogged. The Quebec was bound from Liverpool for St. John, N. B., with a cargo of salt.

KILLED BY A CAVE-IN.

Bridgeton, N. J., Sept. 11.—Sadie Shaw, aged 5 years, and Johnnie Souders, about the same age were playing on a pile of sand yesterday, when it caved in, completely burying them. They were promptly dug out, but little Sadie was dead and the boy was so badly injured that his recovery is doubtful.

THE CONGRESS OF TRADES

Important Subjects Discussed Each Day.

Age at Which Children Be Allowed to Work.

The Labor Party to Enter the Next Campaign in England With a Determination to Win.

Newcastle, Eng., Sept. 11.—Among the subjects brought before the Trades Union congress this morning was that of the age at which children should be allowed to work in factories.

The subject was an interesting one to all present. The great majority of the delegates were in favor of raising the limit of age; a minority were opposed to it.

The majority based their arguments upon humane and moral principles; the minority claimed that raising the limit would be the means of taking a certain portion of the daily bread out of the mouths of many poor families who could not afford such a loss.

The delegates were reminded that many boys and girls were, in cases of sickness, the support of their parents and younger brothers and sisters.

These arguments, however, had little weight against the views expressed by those who set forth in cutting words the evils attendant upon allowing children of tender years to labor in unhealthy factories while exposed to hearing and seeing much that they should neither hear nor see.

Finally a motion to raise the age limit to 13 years was passed by a vote of 265 to 163.

To-day one of the political features of the work before the congress was developed. It arose when the question of paying members of parliament came up for discussion.

As is well known, members of the British parliament receive no pay, and consequently it is a very difficult matter for a poor man to get into parliament, and a still more difficult matter for him to stay there if he succeeds in being elected.

The Irish members of Parliament have, as a rule, not being men of wealth, been assisted by allowances from funds subscribed by the wishers for Ireland's prosperity, and in the same way several of the few English members of Parliament elected from the working classes and by the working classes, have had to rely upon their friends for pecuniary assistance in order to enable them to give up their usual daily work to attend to the affairs of their constituents.

It was announced in the congress today that this question, as well as its kindred questions, those of the payment of members of county councils and school boards, would come up prominently at the next session of Parliament, and that the willingness of a candidate for Parliament at the coming general election to vote for these payments would be made one of the tests upon which the trades unionists would decide whther or not to support such candidate.

It will thus be seen that the labor party seems inclined to ignore the old political parties on the whole, and to support those who will support measures advocated by the Trades Union Congress.

During the course of the business enacted by the congress to-day the delegates passed resolutions condemning the subletting of government contracts, and holding that public bodies ought not to enter into contracts with firms refusing to conform to the customs, hours and wages decreed as being just by the trades unions.

Later in the day Mr. Charles Fenwick, M. P., was re-elected parliamentary secretary, or secretary to the parlimentary committee of the trades union congress, which committee carries out the work laid out for it each year by the session of this labor parliament.

The principle of co-operation, so far as co-operative stores, workshops, factories, etc., are concerned, was freely discussed and approved by the delegates.

GOT BIG VERDICTS.

Wauseon, Sept. 11—(Special)—After dragging along for nearly a week the T. & C. N. Ry. condemnation suits were ended last night. The Railroad Co. was "salted" in nearly every instance. The verdict in some cases was more than the amounts asked by the property owners.

PIONEERS AT PUT-IN-BAY

Doings of the Monumental Association.

New Members Placed on the Rolls.

Speech of President Hayes—Interesting Stories Told About Commodore Perry and His Ship.

Put-in-Bay, Sept. 11.—(Special)—Many are the strange traditions and tales which cluster around Put-in-Bay and Perry's victory. Nearly every inhabitant of the celebrated island can tell you something about the famous fight. One of the stories goes that Perry hid his treasure in the cave which has for several years been a source of pleasure to visitors and an infinitely greater source of revenue to its owners. The tale is that the night before the fight Perry hid the vast amount of money in his possession in the cave referred to, and that it remained there until after the battle.

The story is rather fishy and probably untrue. It is probable that about the only treasure Perry possessed was the bravery of his men, and his own valor and discretion. It is very likely that Commodore Perry never knew of the existence of a cave on South Bass island.

Another story is that the evening before the fight came off Perry called his officers about him and exacted a solemn pledge from each one, that the ships should be scuttled and sunk with all on board, rather than the colors of one of them should be struck to the British.

Besides these stories which must be taken cum grano salis, there exists on the island in addition to the small cannon referred to, a monument of the great victory Perry achieved, which is far more lasting than any that might be erected of stone now to commemorate the event.

The small burial place just opposite the steamboat landing is referred to. The day after the battle Commodore Perry caused a circular trench to be excavated and he buried the brave men who fought and died in the battle of Lake Erie, little dreaming of the grandeur the infant republic for which they gave their lives, would assume in less than a hundred years.

Commodore Perry after the interment planted a willow sprig exactly in the center, and the latter, now a large tree, stands like a sentinel over the grave of the heroes, while the waters which break upon the beach chant their everlasting requiem.

A few years ago citizens planted stone posts about the little spot, and surrounded it with an iron chain, and this, in addition to the willow, alone marks the resting place of men who were as brave as they who fought at Trafalgar or at the battle of the Nile.

The Proceedings Yesterday.

After the speaker of the day, Cassius M. Clay, arrived on the steamer at nearly 10 o'clock, the party partook of dinner at the Beebe house. Afterward the association members gathered about the band stand in the park.

Ex-President R. B. Hayes called the meeting to order, as the president of the association, in a few well chosen words, substantially as follows:

"Comrades of the Association:: I esteem it a great privilege to be allowed to preside over this meeting, which is assembled on one of the most historic spots in the nation. The objects of the Maumee Valley Monumental association are too well known to need much explanation here. Our aim is to plant monuments on every fort site and battle ground in the northwestern part of the state of Ohio, in order that the theater of operations of the war of 1812 may be remembered by generations to come, and that our children and our children's children may learn to love and revere the memory of the men who fought these battles, and be fired with the same sort of patriotic fervor for their country, as the years roll by.

"We have so far succeeded fairly well. 'Tis true that the surveys have all been made, but we have not yet secured the money which is so essential to the success of our plans. We hope within the next few years to have a monument on every fort site and battle ground along the Maumee valley.

"Standing here to-day, overlooking that blue expanse of water, where seventy-eight years ago was fought a terrific naval engagement, I am beset with many strange emotions, and cannot help but think of the results to our country had Commodore Perry been unable to send that brief dispatch. Had he been whipped that day, the war might have resulted entirely differently. The frontier posts then held in this vicinity would have been relinquished, and the mastery of the lakes would have belonged to Britain. The boundary line of our country at the north would probably have been fixed about the mouth of the Maumee bay instead of where it is.

"Thus it is that I say that Perry's victory was attended with wonderful results, of great value to the young republic, and standing here looking over the scene of the conflict, and within sight of the graves of the Heroes who gave up their lives for their country, I revere and honor, in common with all other citizens, the memory of the men who participated in this fight, and the cause for which they fought."

Mr. Hayes then introduced Cassius M. Clay, of Kentucky, who came here on the invitation of the society to deliver the oration.

M. Clay spoke more than two hours referring to the events of the early part of the present century, and to the men who participated in it. He spoke of the part which his father, Gen. Green Clay, had taken in the war and reigted many incidents of frontier life.

At the conclusion of his speech the steamer's whistle apprised the association that the meeting was near a close and after giving three cheers for Mr. Clay it adjourned.

Coming over on the boat a business meeting of the association was held. Treasurer Mitchell submitted a statement of the financial condition of the association and the following directors were appointed to succeed themselves: S. M. Young, Toledo; R. L. Robertson, of Ft. Wayne, Ind., and Hon. Asher Cook, of Perrysburg. Miss Hattie Hall was elected to an honorary membership. The following gentlemen were elected members of the association: Judge Henry L. Howe, Jesse Sisson, N. Gardner, Joseph Flynn, Judge Geo. R. Haynes, Judge I. P. Pugsley, W. H. Scott and Milton Taylor, of Toledo; Judge Tuthill, of Chicago; P. Vrooman, V. Dollar, Put-in-Bay; J. F. Rogers, Archbold, and Cassius M. Clay, Lexington, Ky.

Ex-President Hayes, of Fremont, is president of the association. J. Kent Hamilton secretary, and Reuben Mitchell, of Maumee, treasurer. The next meeting place of the association is not known, but will be fixed early next summer. During the next session of congress the association will push the ebill introduced during the last session providing for an appropriation, and the members are hopeful that it will become a law at an early day.

LEAPED TO DEATH.

Lynn, Mass., Sept. 11.—John F. Cox, aged 77, at one time a professor in a Canadian college, killed himself yesterday by jumping from a third story window. He had pinned a note on the lapel of his coat in which he bade goodbye to his friends and stating his intention to end his life.

RAILWAY POSTAL CLERKS.

NEGROES TO MEET.

They will Discuss Their Political Situation.

Raleigh, N. C., Sept. 10.—A great meeting of representative negroes will be held here during the first week in November. They will discuss wheat is good for their general welfare and among other things take into consideration the motives for the protective league which are understood to be in the interest of Blaine.

J. H. Williamson who will run for congress on the platform that payment be made to ex-slave holders and ex-slaves says he will make it hot for the league white men who he claims number only a few hundred as against 12,000 colored men, just one-sixth of the republican voting strength of the state. The colored people's week at the southern exposition begins Nov. 1.

SCHEMING FOR SPEED.

Mechanic Richards' New Locomotive.

He Wants to Travel 100 Miles an Hour.

Four Cylinders to be Used In Avoiding Centers and Increasing the Speed.

Philadelphia, Sept. 11.—"If the new engine I am about to have constructed is not capable of making one hundred miles an hour I'll give her away to the first person I meet."

This astounding statement was made yesterday by Mr. Jackson Richards, the master mechanic of the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad, who was exhibiting to a party of deeply interested persons the drawings for a locomotive which, if successful, is almost sure to revolutionize the construction of the high speed locomotives of the future. Mr. Richards, who is recognized all over the United States as having no peer in knowledge concerning locomotives and railroad machinery, has been working on his latest invention for the past ten years, and a few days ago the drawings were completed and the patent was applied for.

The new invention will enable a gigantic stride to be taken in the matter of high speed locomotives, and, if the new flyer is as successful as experts predict she will be, it is more than likely that the time between Philadelphia and New York will be made in less than an hour. A specimen engine will be built for exhibition at the World's fair, and the trial trip will be made between here and that city.

In outward appearance the new locomotive will not differ materially from the speedy engines now used on the Philadelphia & Reading railroad between this city and New York. The peculiarity of construction lies in the fact that instead of the two cylinders as used at present there will be four.

One cylinder will be located on each side of the locomotive frame, as at present, and the other two will be castin what is known as the cylinder saddle.

The inside pair of cylinders are to be in one place, and will lie on an angle. The outside cylinders are to be horizontal as at present.

The four cylinders will entirely overcome what is known to engineers as the dead center, and the engine will be perfectly balanced without any counter balance in the wheels. The improvement will, to a large degree, do away with the vecious pounding which has proven so distructive to modern road-beds.

The perfect balancing of the engine will be largely due to the working of the two cylinders so near her center, and these same cylinders, working as they do, from such a central point of vantage will help out in the matter of speed to a great degree.

According to the experts who have examined the drawings the valve motion is perfect. There will be four valves—one to each cylinder—and they will be operated by two links, the same as now used for two cylinders. The engine is designed to be built on the Wooton fire-box, the same as is now used on the famous "206," which made a mile in the remarkable time of 39 4-5 seconds on August 27. The ordinary speed of the destined world-beater will be 85 miles an hour.

CHINESE RIOTING AGAIN.

More Missionaries Reported to Have Been Attacked.

Washington, Sept. 11.—The department of state has received a telegraphic dispatch from the minister at Pekin, reporting that a riot has occurred at Ichang on the Yangtse Kiang river, in the province of Hoo Pe, and that an establishment of American missionaries there had been destroyed. No further particulars are given.

Ichang is about 200 miles above Hang Kow, which is about as far up the river as vessels of war can go. Some years ago two United States naval vessels went as far as Ichang but they were of very light draft. The river at times is so low that this voyage is impossible and when made it must be under favorable circumstances.

CHARGED WITH MURDER.

A Three-Year-Old Child in Court.

He Pushed His Little Brother Into the River and Thereby Caused His Death.

New York, Sept. 11.—The youngest person ever charged with murder was arraigned in Essex Market to-day. He was Jacob Aumond, 3½ years old and the crime charged against him is franticide. It was related by a colored boy who saw the deed committed that Jacob deliberately pushed his younger brother Pesach from the dock foot of Clinton street East river, thereby drowning him.

The judge held that Jacob was too young to be held responsible for his acts. The case was, however, turned over to the coroner. Jacobs parents reside at 330 Cherry street. They are distracted with grief.

A FRAUD ON ITS FACE.

The Boasted McKinley American Tin Buttons

Imported From Wales for the Ohio Campaign.

A Base Scheme Into Which Republicans Have Entered to Further Deceive the Ohio Voters.

Bellaire, O., Sept. 11.—Nearly every republican in Ohio is now wearing a tin lapel button, alleged to be made of American tin plate, and bearing the imprint of the face of the author of the now notorious tariff bill, Wm. McKinley, jr.

Below McKinley's face on the button is the legend, "American tin."

John W. Crooks, one of the officers of the Ohio Society of Republican clubs, and a wholesale dealer in notions at Martin's Ferry, has the exclusive sale of the buttons, and has sent out circulars to all the republican clubs in Ohio, alleging that these buttons are made of American tin, and advising that they be worn as emblems of republicanism in the Ohio campaign.

Yesterday a clerk in Mr. Crooks' employ gave the whole snap away. These buttons came to Mr. Crooks packed in boxes that were put up at Swansea, Wales.

The tin was made in Wales, and all the work of preparing the buttons was done by Welsh workmen.

The boxes have the manufacturer's imprint burnt on them with a branding iron, and the same as the ordinary tin plate boxes, and the marks of the New York custom house are there in all their hideousness.

McKinley and his co-workers are using Welsh tin to carry the state for American tin and McKinley.

BROUGHT HIS HEAD BACK.

Banker Edwards in the Land of the Living.

Balmaceda Did Not Succeed in Putting the Insurgents' Friend Out of the Way.

San Francisco, Sept. 11.—Alfredo Edwards, head of the Chilian banking firm of Edwards & Co., writes here that he has safely arrived at Callao.

Shortly after the war in Chili broke out Balmaceda set a price on Edwards' head. Edwards suddenly disappeared, and as nothing was heard of him for several months, it was thought he had been privately executed by Balmaceda. It now transpires that Edwards was hiding in Santiago until up to a week before the city surrendered to the congressionalists.

Rehabilitation of the Chilian finances will probably devolve upon Mr. Edwards, as he is the ablest financier in that country. He supplied the government with money to carry on the Peruvian war, and for his services on that occasion was given exclusive right to issue paper money in Chili.

FOSTORIA FACTS.

The L. E. & W. Strike—The Metz Murder Case.

Fostoria, O., Sept. 11.—(Special)—Again no L. E. & W. freights are coming east, and the yards here are quiet owing to the strike of switchmen at Lima.

No clues or startling evidence of any kind are being developed in the coroner's inquest being held in this city over the murder of Eldie Metz. The examining physicians have gone to Tiffin to exhume the body and hold another and more satisfactory autopsy.

Frank Gibert, of this city, has been awarded the contract of constructing North Baltimore's sewers.

F. D. Adams has returned from a tour of different Ohio cities in the interest of the emancipation celebration to be held here this month.

RIOTING IN LIMA.

More Trouble on the Lake Erie & Western.

The Discharged Men Try to Stop the Company From Moving Trains, But Fail.

Lima, O., Sept. 11.—The striking yardmen of the Lake Erie & Western had a conference with General Superintendent Hill. On the refusal to return to work on the company's terms the strikers were discharged. An attempt to switch cars in the yards resulted in an assault on Engineer Fisher by the strikers, and warrants were issued for their arrest. A freight train was started out, but the strikers pulled all the coupling pins. Later the train was sent out under police protection. No more trouble is expected.

Later.—The strike on the Lake Erie & Western road is settled and trains are being made up and run out under police protection, but there is no danger of further trouble as warrants were last night issued for the arrest of the strikers for interfering with the United States mails, but they got wind of the writs and have disappeared. They will be arrested and prosecuted if found.

WILL NOT ACCEPT IT.

Syracuse, N. Y., Sept. 11.—Friends of Senator Hendricks who has just been mentioned as the probable successor of J. Sloat Fassett as collector of the port of New York, said yesterday that the senator would not accept the place. The senator himself could not be located.

COMMITTED SUICIDE.

Philadelphia, Sept. 11.—C. M. Stokes, a broker who trades for Drexel, committed suicide by shooting himself at his office, 42 Librard street, this morning.

ANOTHER FRANK C. ALMY

The Story of Cutter's Murderous Attacks

Made and Contemplated on His Brother-in-Law.

A Fiend Incarnate Who Found His Way to a Prison Cell Before His Deed Was Consummated.

Boston, Sept. 11.—A most daring and fiendish plot to murder and rob is supposed to have been frustrated by the timely intervention of Capt. Cain and Special Officers Tryder and Sullivan, of Station 1, who, after doing one of the cleverest pieces of detective work that has been performed for a long time, had the satisfaction of seeing the alleged would-be criminal safely locked up in a cell and a mass of information collected which, if borne out by investigation, will make the attempt one of the most cruel and cold-blooded plots in the history of this state.

About a week ago Capt. Cain got information that a murder was to be perpetrated, and with the officers above named he started on the case.

He was informed that an ex-convict named J. E. Cutter, who resided at 79 Cambridge street, in this city, and who had served a two years' sentence for attempting to murder his brother-in-law, Luther H. Rowe, who resides at 7 Rowe street, Melrose, was again aiming at his relative's life.

Cutter had confided his plans to a friend named William Butler, who was so badly frightened that he did not dare to refuse when requested to share evenly the dangers and reward of an attack on the home of Mr. and Mrs. Rowe.

The officers tried hard to get Butler to decoy Cutter into the Hampden house, where rooms had been prepared for the visit, but he was altogether too clever to be caught napping.

Butler received a very imperative message yesterday from Cutter, requesting a meeting for last evening, and insisted on going to Atwood's oyster house, at the corner of Russell and Union streets, in the North End.

The Pair Were Shadowed

To that place by the trio of officers, who found them snugly ensconced in one of the stalls, partaking of a light lunch.

The officers, being familiar with Butler's voice, soon got the lay of the land, and took up their station in the next stall, where all they had to do was to stand up and look over the transom or partition and they not only could hear but see all that was going on.

Most of the conversation had been finished when the officers got in position, but they heard Cutter say, "We must kill him to-night."

Under some pretext Butler managed to get out of the stall for an instant, and during the time he was absent the officers to be sure to catch both of Cutter's arms, for he carried a loaded revolver in each pocket.

When the plot was laid and the men had agreed to start for Melrose at once, they quietly walked out of the eating-house, but scarcely had they reached the pavement before Officer Tryder had his man safely pinioned from behind and held in a vise-like grip.

The man kicked and squirmed for dear life, but he might just as well have tried to shake off manacles as to get rid of the powerful detective.

Officer Sullivan went through his outside coat pockets in a twinkling, and fished out two murderous-looking revolvers and ball cartridges enough to keep him firing for a couple of hours.

One of the revolvers was for short range and is known as the noiseless gun, owing to the fact that it is usually placed against the victim's body and discharged.

The barrel is about one inch long, and the chamber holds seven 42-calibre cartridges. The arm is called the "vest pocket hammerless."

The other revolver was one of the old-time pattern, and is a cross between the modern "bulldog" and the old Colt's revolver.

Down stairs in Capt. Cain's office sat Butler, who gave the following version of the plot:

"Cutter has fairly haunted me for the past few weeks, ever since he unfolded his hellish design to me, and while I kept putting him off with one or another excuse he persisted in doing the job at once.

"Last Friday night we had planned to go to Melrose and do the job, but the intended victim was forewarned and the scheme fell through.

"He would not listen to me when I told him that I was not prepared to wipe out the Rowe family on Friday night, so when we held our consultation this evening I firmly believe he would have riddled me with bullets had I not consented to help him out.

"The plot was laid as follows: We were both to go out to the Rowe house, and I was to knock on the door or ring a bell while Cutter laid in the grass at the back of the house, and as soon as Rowe came to the door I was to stand aside and he would shoot Rowe.

"Then I was to finish him with the short range revolver which he was to give me.

"Rowe out of the way, we were to rush inside and grab his sister by the throat and demand all the money and valuables she had in the house, and if she refused— At this point he hesitated, and I said, 'Why, you would not kill your sister, would you?' It took him but an instant to decide, and then he fairly hissed between his teeth:

"'Yes, d—n her; I will kill her if she don't give me the money.'

Butler then startled the small party present, even the veteran detective, Capt. Cain, when he said that Cutter had been experimenting with bombs which he at one time thought would be a good way to put Rowe out of the way.

"He called on me a few days ago," continued Butler, "at my home in the suburbs and brought along a sample of the bombs, wrapped up in a small American flag, which was fastened to a stick about three feet long.

"He wanted to have me perfect myself in the use of them, claiming that he had made two which he experimented with at the beach a week ago with most disastrous effect to the huge bowlders and the ground in the vicinity, which he said looked as though the spot had been visited by an earthquake.

"It was his sole aim to rig some device to blow Rowe out of existence, and he knew of no better way than to lay for him in his barn and throw the dynamite bomb at him, which would of course explode when it struck him.

"I asked him if he was sure it would explode, and he pulled the little flag off a long thing that he said was a bomb and was ready to be used at any time."

Butler told at length of the cold-blooded plotting and scheming, and concluded by saying that he firmly believed that if let into the house he was decided enough to blow up a whole community.

At this point Capt. Cain dispatched Officer Tryder and Sullivan to the prisoner's room, which was at 79 Chambers street, in a house occupied by Dr. Elliot and family, the former a reputable physician and his wife an estimable lady.

The officers were but a few minutes making the search, and they found evidence enough to not only bear out Butler's story, but secured sufficient evidence to possibly convict the accused.

Down stairs the officers went, and when they informed the family of what they had discovered one of the ladies was so overcome she had to be carried to a chair.

The good people were shocked, and well they might be, for the room contained half a dozen devices designed to take human life.

On reaching the station house the bundle was deposited on a table and an investigation begun, Officer Sullivan overhauling the stuff.

An old and dilapidated umbrella was among the effects, and a long, slim bomb of the same pattern as those used in Chicago was found at the end of the stick and fastened in an ingenious manner.

A strong bow and half a dozen arrows were also there, about half of the arrows having poisoned tips, and the others spears.

A block of hard wood two inches square and about eighteen inches long was also among the effects, and a half-inch hole was bored in the end which just admitted the bomb.

While Officer Sullivan and the writer were experimenting and examining the effects several of the gentlemen, among them the intended victim, Mr. Rowe, and Chief of Police Frank M. McLaughlin of Melrose, stepped back and looked on from a distance.

The writer could not help seeing the frightened expression on Mr. Rowe's face, for there were the products of a devilish mind and all aiming at his life.

Two long tubes, a pint flask of powder, a paper of the very finest grade of black powder, red pepper to throw in the eyes of his victims, a notebook in which strange characters that are only known to himself, and held many secrets, were found.

He was fond of newspaper clippings, and all of them contained some account of the doings of desperadoes.

One that undoubtedly pleased him was a lengthy article containing the account of the shooting of a detective named Max Freeman, for running down the murderer of the cashier of the Keystone National bank, and that was marked "good," and underscored in several places.

This only goes to prove how the unfortunate man's mind must have been running, for the clippings were from the Globe, New York Sun and other papers, and prove his mind was continually running in that channel.

After all his effects had been overhauled and nothing in the line of documentary evidence was obtained, the spectators stood back in horror at the sight before them.

Capt. Craine had brought out the revolvers, cartridges and wicked knife, and the whole business was enough to make a brave man shudder, much more the terror-stricken Mr. Rowe.

The intended victim, Luther H. Rowe, then gave his story as follows:

"Cutter has no business. He is a loafer and a rowdy, although I am married to his sister.

"He has been before the police courts several times, but was clever enough to escape the clutches of the law until the night of March 24, '88, when he tried to take my life with a rifle ball, which struck my shoulder.

"His conviction soon followed, and he served nearly two years for it.

"I did not swindle his mother out of a cent, and took good care of her for years, and up to the time of her death.

"I am fully convinced that he bears me no ill-will and is simply after money, and thinking that I have more at hand than any person he knows of, he picked me out for his first victim.

"Do I think he would kill me? Yes, I am certain that he would kill half a dozen if they stood in his way, and his sister included, for he knows no mercy.

"He is a second Frank C. Almy, who plans in the most cunning manner an atrocious crime that curdles the blood in the veins, but shows the fool by not being to get away after the deed is done.

"Why, I remember perfectly well what Sheriff Briggs told me when he talked the matter over with Cutter when he first assaulted me.

"The sheriff asked him what he thought would become of him if he succeeded in killing me and rousing the otherwise peaceful community, and his answer was: 'I don't care what they do with me, for I want to kill Rowe and then I will be satisfied.'

"Cutter is a slippery fellow, as he has proven on more than one occasion, for to my knowledge he has four wives living and distributed at Atlanta, New York, California and Danvers, Mass.

"Yes, I heard something about the suspicious death of one of his children, which was printed in the papers, and know that he has a child living at present.

"I have felt his presence on many occasions, and instinctively changed my routes so as to avoid him if he was lurking in the bushes for me, or hiding around a corner.

"I have made it a point to return to my house by a different route from that I would take to go to town, and so you may suppose I did not feel much better when I learned that he had been seen to take the 20 minutes to nine train for Malden from Melrose last Thursday night, for I had received a decoy letter at that time."

A SUICIDE AT TEN.

Boy Takes Paris Green to Escape Going to School.

Strange Conduct of a New Jersey Lad to Whom Education Was a Burden.

Philadelphia, Sept. 11.—Dread of the return to school life rankled in many a youthful breast Tuesday, but in none with such violence as in that of 10 year old Harry Githens, of Atco, Camden county, N. J. So deep-seated was his dread that he took a dose of paris green in an evident effort to end his life. His attending physician said that the boy had little chance of recovery.

Harry is the son of George Githens, a well known resident of Atco. When he arose yesterday morning he begged his parents to excuse him from attending school. He seemed to have no particular foundation for his dislike of returning to his studies, and his parents refused to allow him to remain away. He was a bright lad and had shown an aptitude for learning in previous terms of school.

The lad left the house very much cast down, and in about an hour returned, complaining of terrible pains.

"What have you been eating?" asked Mrs. Githens, anxiously.

Dr. Hoverder was instantly summoned, and he worked with the boy for hours, but he continued to grow weaker, and the doctor was at length compelled to say that he could do no more for him.

Dr. Hoverder and Dr. Stout, of Berlin, worked all day with the lad, and although he was somewhat improved, at a late hour last night he was not out of danger. It is thought that he must have swallowed half a tincupful of the poisonous powder.

SEVEN LITTLE BABES.

A Couple Who Will Have Quite a Family in Time.

McGregor, Tex., Sept. 11.—Mrs. McGriffin, who gave birth to triplets 10 months ago, broke the record last night with a quartet. All seven are doing well.

THE EIGHT-HOUR LAW.

English Comment on the Question.

Whatever Results From the Trades Congress the Voice of Labor Will be Better Respected.

London, Sept. 11.—The Standard (conservative) declares that the eight-hour movement is the "ground bait of socialism," adding, "happily the issue rests with parliament."

The Daily News (liberal) referring to the same subject, says that the difference between the two resolutions which have been so much discussed at the trades' union congress is "that between cool and hot blood, between statesmanship and enthusiasm. The two-thirds permission for adoption might some day be carried through parliament, but the permissive rejection would never pass. Unless workmen reconsider their decision the bill will be postponed indefinitely."

A veteran member of parliament, speaking of the labor movement, said: "If no other good comes out of this labor movement, it will have accomplished an immense task in having made the voice of labor respected and the demands of labor listened to with consideration.

TOOK IT TO THE GRAVE

The Secret of Barton's Action Sealed Forever.

A Strange Story of the Past Recalled.

How He Deserted His Intended Bride at the Altar and Never Gave Any Explanation.

Philadelphia, Sept. 11.—The death of Francis Barton recalls one of the strangest romances which the annals of Philadelphia social life discloses.

Those who were active in society 25 years ago may recall the circumstances attending the case, resulting as they did in the death of a broken hearted girl, the ostracism of a former leader in society, and the mystery surrounding it all, which has never been cleared up. The secret was buried with the dead man Saturday.

Francis Barton was a son of Dr. Rhea Barton, who formerly lived on Chestnut street on the spot where the Keystone bank building now stands.

Mrs. Charles Willing, whose daughter, Miss Ava Willing, recently married John Jacob Astor, is also a daughter of Dr. Barton. Twenty-five years ago Francis Barton, then a widower of about 50 and a leader, in society, met and wooed Miss Fisher, of New York, a niece of Admiral Turner. After a brief courtship, the day of the wedding was fixed. Invitations had been issued, presents had poured in from hundreds of friends, and all seemed merry as the marriage bell. But the marriage never took place.

A prominent Philadelphian who knew Mr. Barton at the time was seated in the Union league yesterday afternoon and recalled the strange story. "Everything had been fixed for the wedding," he said. "Mr. Barton and the gentleman who was to have acted as best man were on their way to New York. The ceremony was fixed for the following day.

"Barton's companion noticed that he appeared to be preoccupied. Suddenly he turned in his seat and said: 'I am going to do a very strange thing.' 'What is it?' inquired his friend. 'Why,' replied Barton, 'I am not going to marry that woman.'

"His friend looked at him in amazement, and asked for an explanation. This Barton refused to give. The gentleman expressed great indignation at such a proceeding, and finally retired to another car. The next day, that fixed for the wedding, Barton sailed for Europe. So far as I know, the reasons for his strange conduct have never been ascertained."

Shortly before the marriage was to have taken place Mr. Barton built a handsome residence at No. 1920 Chestnut street, in which to domicile his bride. For 20 years this house remained closed. Not a soul was ever seen to enter or leave it. During all this time Mr. Barton was living in Europe.

The feeling against him was very bitter, not only in New York, but among his former friends in Philadelphia. This feeling received an additional impetus when, shortly after having been deserted by the man in whom she trusted so implicitly, Miss Fisher died of a broken heart.

About five years ago Mr. Barton returned. It was noticed that the old house on Chestnut street, which, with each additional year, had gained an additional appearance of decay and weather stain, was once more open.

A French chef was installed in the kitchen, an English butler in the pantry and a page at the front door, in addition to a large retinue of other servants.

But although surrounded by all the luxuries that wealth could command, the proprietor of this magnificent establishment was far from happy.

It was noticed that his only visitors were his sister, Mrs. Willing, and two maiden sisters. When he walked he spoke to but few people, although many wondered who the silent and stern-faced man was.

During the summer months he maintained an establishment at Red Bank, N. J., and it was there that he died. Last Saturday morning an undertaker's wagon stopped at the door of the Chestnut street house, and a casket was carried into the house. The wagon disappeared, and a hearse and a few carriages took their places along the curb. Rev. Dr. Ritter officiated, and in less than two hours from the time the remains entered that strange house for the last time those solemn words: "Dust to dust, ashes to ashes," had been pronounced, and they had been consigned to their last resting place, with the secret that for all those years had been guarded so jealously.

Mr. Barton leaves an estate variously estimated at between $500,000 and $1,000,000. He leaves a daughter, Mrs. Pendleton, who is his only child.

FAMILY TROUBLE.

The Suicide of W. P. Rockwell Reported.

Summit, N. J., Sept 11.—Wm. P. Rockwell, a New York business man who has been staying at the Highland house since last June with his wife and child committed suicide in their hotel sometime Tuesday night by strangulation.

Mrs. Rockwell went to New York with her three-year-old boy on Tuesday morning leaving Mr. Rockwell. On his not appearing at meal time the landlord broke open the door of his room and found Mr. Rockwell dead on the bed with a rubber tube wound tightly around his neck.

Family dissensions are the supposed cause of the suicide. Mrs. Rockwell is the daughter of C. H. Swan, treasurer of the North River bridge company.

GOSSIP FROM SANDUSKY.

The Wheel Company on Its Feet Again.

Cedar Point Closed for the Season—General Gossip of Interest.

Sandusky, O., Sept. 11.—(Special)—The works of the American Wheel company have been released by order of United States Marshal Wade. Mr. George W. Megginson and Mr. David Sutton, the former custodians were released, and Mr. Wilson P. Spencer was appointed by the receiver to manage the company's business here, and is now in charge.

At a meeting of the Sandusky Republican club, Mr. George D. Lewin was elected president, Major E. B. King vice president, and Messrs. Linn W. Hull, W. H. McCambridge, A. M. Anderson and C. F. Selkirk as a board of managers.

Nine hundred tons of steel rails purchased by the Sandusky & Columbus Short Line railway, will arrive here about the 15th.

The new county auditor, Mr. L. N. Wenner, who was elected last fall, will take his office Monday the 14th. Auditor Boun, retiring.

Next Monday evening Messrs. E. T. Bierce and C. F. Selkirk will leave for St. Louis, as representatives of the Sandusky society of railroad clerks at the national convention. Mr. John Ranahan will go as an officer of the grand association.

Rev. D. E. Bierce and Mr. J. P. Merriam were at Chicago Junction this week in attendance on the meetings of the Huron Presbytery. The Ladies' Home Missionary societies held their meetings in the same place with the Presbytery.

Cedar Point closed Sunday for the season of 1891, and although the rain Saturday night interfered greatly with the excursion business from other cities, Sanduskians were there in large numbers. The opera house band gave concerts throughout the day and the evening festivities closed with a grand display of fireworks.

OVER A PRECIPICE.

Charles Lane Met a Terrible Death in the Mountains.

Geneva, Sept. 11.—Mr. Charles Lane, of New York, who has for some time been residing at Oberhofen Thun, took a party of ladies on an excursion to the Boatenberg. The ladies in returning to Oberhofen Thun took the same road which they had traversed in going to Boatenberg, while Mr. Lane started to go home via Justusthal. Nothing having been heard from him for several hours a party was sent out to discover his whereabouts. The searchers were horrified to find Lane's fearfully mutilated body lying at the foot of a precipice, 150 feet in height, over which he had fallen.

The remains of the unfortunate gentleman have been brought to his mother, who is stopping in this city.

TRADE REGULATIONS.

Washington, Sept. 11.—Acting Secretary Spaulding has advised Messrs. Cebalos & Co., of New York, who ask if Spain can impose, in view of treaty stipulations, "export or loading duty" on suggars shipped from Cube to the United States, that according to the treaty the government of Spain gives assurance that during the existance of the transitory arrangement, so-called, "no export or port duty, whether national or provisional, shall be imposed on the articles or merchandise exported from Cuba and Porto Rico to the United States and which the latter nation admits free of duties."

A TIME LIMIT.

Washington, Sept. 10.—Acting Secretary Spaulding has informed the collector at Philadelphia that failure to appeal to the courts within 30 days after the rendering of any adverse decision by the board of general appraisers, bars the government from further contention on the case thus adjudicated. Similar cases arising, if appealed within the proper time may be determined by the courts.

BEYOND BELIEF.

A New York Furniture Shark's Cruelty.

A Mother and Babe Left on the Cold Floor of a House for a Debt of Three Dollars.

New York, Sept. 11.—On the complaint of Mrs. Jennie Jaeger of 146 Hudson street, Justice Ryan in the Essex Market police court to-day issued a summons for George Rubel, a furniture dealer of 189 First avenue.

According to Mrs. Jaeger's story, soon after her marriage in December last she and her husband bought of Rubel $565 worth of furniture, paying part of the purchase money in cash and agreeing to pay the remainder in instalments of $1.50 per week.

The instalments were paid regularly until a week ago, when only $3 was due, and when in consequence of an addition to the Jaeger family an extension of one or two weeks was asked for.

The next day Rubel had the furniture taken away, leaving Mrs. Jaeger and her young infant upon the floor.

The summons issued by Justice Ryan requires Rubel to show cause why he should not be punished for his cruelty.

There is a law covering his case and he is liable to a heavy fine and imprisonment, or both. If he does not get the full benefit of the law, there are several athletic young friends of the Jaeger family who declare they will give him something to think of in the future.

WESTERN TRAFFIC ASSOCIATION

New York, Sept. 11.—The meeting of the board of commissioners of the Western Trunk Line association, which was called for to-morrow for the purpose of discussing the question of the commissions to be paid by trans-continental lines on emigrant business, has been indefinitely postponed because of the inability of some of the western representatives to attend.

OUR CATTLE IN CANADA.

Ottawa, Oat., Sept. 11.—In the house of commons last night it was announced that the government had decided to refuse the application of a syndicate of American and Canadian capitalists to slaughter American cattle in Canada for export.

UNDER A RECEIVER.

Chicago, Sept. 11.—The property of the United States Publishing company was today placed in charge of a receiver. The liabilities and assets are estimated at $60,000. The company did an extensive school furnishing business.

A STORY OF WAR.

A Husband Finds His Long Lost Bride.

Not, However, Until He Had Married Again and Raised a Family.

Lincoln, Neb., Sept. 11.—The suit of Joseph Troop in the divorce court brings out a most remarkable story.

Thirty-one years ago Troop was married to Miss Elizabeth Carter in Ohio. Four weeks after the wedding Joseph went to the front as a soldier. He fought for four years, and finally was hit by a confederate bullet and was left for dead on the field. News of his supposed death reached his Ohio home.

Nevertheless, he recovered after several months' suffering in a hospital, and in 1866 he returned to Ohio to claim his bride. But she had left and could not be found. He hunted for her for months and years, and finally heard that she was dead.

Meanwhile he had met another charming young lady and the two were finally married. For 23 years they have lived together, and in addition to accumulating a handsome fortune they have been blessed with several sons and daughters, one now of age.

A week ago, while at the state reunion of soldiers at Grand island, Troop was introduced to a widow lady by the same name. A few minutes' conversation revealed the fact that the gray-haired lady was his bride of over thirty years ago.

The old soldier was dumbfounded and hurried to his Lincoln home to bear the tidings to the mother of his children.

He assured her that nothing but death could part her from him, and sent word to his long-lost wife that he would have to sue for a divorce from her, as he wished to legitimize his children. To-day he filed his suit. The grounds are desertion.

THE STATESVILLE DISASTER.

The Jurors Are Now Quibbling Over Their Decision.

Raleigh, N. C., Sept. 11.—Williams, one of the coroner's jury at the recent wreck near Statesville, N. C., is denounced by Jurymen Carlton, Stephany, and Lamfrecht for the assertion that he "dissented" from the report of the jury which states that a rail had been misplaced before the wreck, the last three named jurymen insisting that such was the case. There seems to be an attempt on the part of some one to make it appear that this rail was misplaced after the wrecking of the train. It is a theory, however, which finds little favor with the public.

The more the case is examined into the more clearly is it shown that some scoundrel tramp caused the disaster out of pure revenge for having been put off a preceding freight.

THE ORDERS WERE WRONG.

Beatrice, Neb., Sept. 11.—Through an error of a train dispatcher a special train bound for the State fair and the regular passenger train on the Union Pacific collided near this place. Both engines and the mail car were demolished. Two passengers, Victor Haisley and George Orton were probably fatally injured, and Conductor Baird was seriously injured by jumping. Other passengers were more or less injured, but not seriously hurt.

MR. MAGEE AND BLAINE.

What the Bar Harbor Interview Amounted to.

The Pittsburg Politician Speaks His Piece.

If the Republican Convention Deems Proper to Name Him He Will Not Refuse to Run.

New York, Sept. 11.—It was discovered in Pittsburg in the early part of last week that Chris Magee had gone to Bar Harbor for a conference with Secretary Blaine. On Thursday the Pittsburg Press, the personal organ of the western Pennsylvania politician, announced authoritatively that the purpose of Magee's visit to Bar Harbor was to find out, if possible, the intentions of Blaine regarding the presidential nomination next year.

It was stated that if Blaine signified his intention of accepting the nomination Magee would give out an "inspired" interview.

If, on the other hand, Blaine absolutely declined to run, Magee would "keep mum and saw wood for some other man suitable to him."

Mr. Magee reached this city last night on his way home. The "inspired" interview was forthcoming to-day. It is very conservative, but it probably states the secretary's position accurately. Mr. Magee said that Mr. Blaine was in good spirits.

"His conversations were treats," said the Pennsylvanian, "and he talked in his usual animated way. He was not at all depressed about his health, although he is by no means recovered from his recent attack. He was interested in reciprocity and had a great deal to say about the admission of pork into Germany.

"And what he said was not only interesting but instructive. He asked many questions about western Pennsylvania, where he used to live. His memory was excellent, for he remembered people whom he inquired about that I know he has not seen for years. I never saw any one with a keener appetite to hear about the people and the haunts he knew in his early years."

"Did the conversation ever drift into politics?"

"No, not once. Mr. Blaine did not seem to have any political cares whatever on his mind."

"Do you think he would accept the nomination for the presidency if it should be tendered him?"

"Yes, in certain contingencies. Mind you, he has said nothing to me on the subject. I only surmise. One of the contingencies, of course, is his health. If he is as strong as he is now, I do not think he would refuse the nomination if it was practically unanimous. But, really, I do not think he cares anything at all about it. He is interested in his work as secretary of state, and I believe he prefers to remain where he is."

"It is said in several papers that you were against President Harrison, and went purposely to see Mr. Blaine and sound him on the question of the presidency?"

"There is nothing in that story. It is a well known fact that President Harrison and I are not thoroughly en rapport, owing to some appointments, but no one can deny that the president has carried out all his pledges. As the president he is the head of the republican party, and naturally the acts of his party in congress become a part of his administration. But somehow the people do not warm up to the president as they do to Mr. Blaine. The tide seems to be in favor of Mr. Blaine's nomination. Not that there is any enmity toward the president; not that he is not an able man, but because he lacks the magnetism. That is all there is in it. The friends of Mr. Blaine do not decry the president and they do not refuse to credit him with giving the country one of the most satisfactory administrations. Blaine holds the people by his magnetism.

"Mr. Magee, do you honestly believe that Mr. Blaine will be physically cap ble of going through another presidential campaign?" asked the reporter.

The Pennsylvanian hesitated a moment before replying, and then said: "Well, you know, I'm not a medical expert. But from what I could see of the secretary he is rapidly on the mend, and, barring unforseen developments, I think he will be fit for the fight next year."

Congressman Samuel B. Dick, who was at the Fifth Avenue to-day, exhibited great interest in the interview of Christopher L. Magee. Mr. Dick said: "I certainly think Mr. Magee's utterances are significant. If Mr. Magee said that Mr. Blaine, in his opinion, would not refuse the nomination, why, I am sure there is something in it. As I understand it, Mr. Magee saw Mr. Blaine and afterwards gave it as his opinion that the secretary of state would accept the nomination if it is tendered him. Mr. Magee is a man who would not make a reckless statement. I think that he knows whereof he speaks."

"If Mr. Blaine should be a candidate, would the Keystone state send a solid delegation for him?"

"Nothing in the world could keep the state from sending a solid delegation to the republican national convention for Mr. Blaine if he consents to run. There would be no divided delegation, as there was in 1888 in Chicago. In 1884 Pennsylvania gave him over 80,000 majority. If he runs in 1892 his majority will be greater."

Shakers of All Creeds and Kinds

Are to be found in every locality visited by chills and fever. The very animals exhibit in such plague fostered regions symptoms of the direful infection. If experience has proved, in the domain of medicine, anything conclusively, it is that Hostetter's Stomach Bitters will not only eradicate from the system every vestige of the miasma-born complaint, but effectually defend residents and temporary sojourners in malaria-scourged localities against it. There is a general concensus of opinion among medical men, no less than in the minds of the public, on this point. Not only on this continent, but in the tropics where malaria complaints assume their most virulent type, this incomparable medicinal safeguard is universally used and esteemed. Dyspepsia, biliousness constipation, debility and kidney trouble are all thoroughly remediable by the Bitters.

THE LAKE REGIONS

THE PREVALENCE OF CATARRH AND LUNG TROUBLES.

Something About the Nature and Result of the Disease—The Statement of Miss Schnuringer.

In the lake climate catarrh is unquestionably the cause of more deaths than any other disease. At first it is as a rule a little thing, merely a cold in the head. But in a climate like ours, one cold is not entirely cured before another follows. A succession of cold constitutes chronic catarrh. A strong and healthy constitution will suffer only inconvenience from catarrh, but all others run a great risk from what may follow. The inflammation of the nose and back part of the throat gradually extends downward, involving first the larynx and vocal cords, ruining the voice for singing, and then proceeds on its march still farther. The trachea or windpipe is next attacked; following that the large bronchial tubes; then the bronchioles; and, lastly, the lungs themselves. The lungs, however, are not the only sufferer, for a great deal of this nauseating mucus secreted in the back part of the throat finds its way into the stomach, disarranges digestion, and produces various forms of stomachic and intestinal dyspepsia. "A long catalogue of evils to follow such a little thing as a cold. Isn't it? And yet everyone of them might happen, and every one of them does happen in hundreds and thousands of instances. The health is broken, the constitution weakened, and, although the catarrh itself may not be the actual cause of death, still indirectly, by so weakening the system that it is unable to resist the attack of other diseases, it is."

Miss Louise Schnuringer, 1631 Michigan St

That Drs. Copeland and Buffett are notably if not wonderfully successful in treating and curing catarrh in this region the columns of the daily papers show beyond a doubt. Another of the ladies to furnish direct and emphatic testimony of the results of their treatment is Miss Louise Schnuringer, 1631 Michigan street. She says:

"I had what the doctors called acute throat trouble. It started with the sore throat, which caused a continual swelling, and although under treatment it could not be reduced.

"I at first paid but little attention to it, but as I was getting no relief I began to get alarmed.

"The mucus would gather in my throat and in the head, completely stopping up the nasal passage. At this I began to experience

"TERRIBLE HEADACHES.

"At this time my throat had assumed such a condition that I could take nothing but liquid food, and on this account each day I was gradually being reduced in weight. A short time ago my mamma brought me to Drs. Copeland and Buffett and placed me in their charge, and now I am

"ENTIRELY CURED.

"No more headaches, no more dropping of mucus. I can eat well and my throat has assumed its normal condition."

The story seems truly wonderful, the writer was induced to call upon Louise's mother. He was graciously received, and in speaking of her daughter's case, says: "Yes, what my daughter says is really true. She was almost a wreck, and we had done all we could to have her cured. Why, when she wanted a drink of water I would have to hold her ears and nose in order that she might swallow. In addition to what my daughter has said, I would add that Drs. Copeland and Buffett have done wonders in her case, and to any and all I will be only too glad to tell them of my daughter's recovery."

CHILDREN'S DAY.

The Youthful Frolickers Invade the Fair Grounds,

Making the Scene a Happy and Joyous One.

The Asylum Has a Bazaar—The Exhibitors' Displays—Yesterday's Races—Notes Here and There.

This is children's day at the exposition, and the children and everybody else for that matter are well aware of the fact for the youngsters are on the grounds in droves and having an out and out good time. The city schools closed to-day, and crowds of school children are swarming over the grounds and through the buildings, swelling the army of young people. A large number of little people also came from the various institutions and parochial schools in this vicinity, and taking in the big gathering at a glance one could easily discern that it was really children's day.

It is gratifying to the members of the Toledo Exposition company and all intrusted to be able to state to-day that the exposition this year is a success.

Over 30,000 people passed through the gates yesterday, the largest attendance of any one day thus far. It is estimated in the ticket department that 80,000 people had visited the grounds up to 3 o'clock to-day. This shows up pretty well when compared with the attendance last year when 6,000 a day was the highest number reached.

Last year the managers had everything to contend with, including inexperince and continual wet weather. Something like $12,000 was sunk in the exposition. A portion of this was looked upon as an investment, but it was mostly lost, at least it was gone and with no chance of getting it back, at least for a year.

This year, however, matters will terminate in a much different manner. Speaking of the success of the present exposition Secretary R. B. Crane said this morning: "We will make money this year, enough, I think, to make up for last year's losses and have a small balance in the treasury. We have learned many things, and next year we'll be in shape to hold an exposition that will be a success artistically, financially and every other way."

THE RACES YESTERDAY.

The races or race at the fair grounds was of an unusually exciting nature. As will be seen by the summary there has been seldom a more peculiar race run. The three starters each won two heats, each came in second twice, and consequently each came in third twice—making it a straight, clean tie between the three for first places. There were hints that Nightingale was pulled in the interest of the bookmakers in the first heat and Judge Cummings evidently thought so for he ordered Jim Pickett, Nightingale's driver, to give up his horse. In the next heat Nightingale made a monkey out of her new driver and was not in the race from the start, thus vindicating Pickett, who was given his horse in the following heat:

"You know Night ngale never runs until the third or fourth heat," protested Pickett to Judge Cummings.

Pickett illustrated this by winning the next two heats.

It did seem that Biddy Donovan was not given a fair show. She had won two heats very neatly and in the third came in well ahead with Magnoma. Magnoma's rider claimed a dead heat and the crowd indorsed this view. Geo. Ketcham claimed the heat for Donovan, but to the surprise of everyone Judge Cummings announced Magnoma first, third and second. The people's lungs yelled themselves hoarse.

At the start in the fourth heat Biddy broke perceptibly as she went under the wire, but the word "go" was given just the same.

Mr. Ketcham and Dr. Newton, both very angry, ascended to the judge's stand.

"Does that start go?" asked Mr Ketcham.

"Why, yes, it goes," said Judge Cummings pleasantly.

"Well, then, I will never enter another horse on this track should I live to be a thousand."

"Donovan won the last heat too" said Dr. Newton as he turned to go down the steps.

Mr. Cummings undoubtedly meant to be fair and just, but ruling like yesterday will not help future fairs.

In this heat Nightingale, Danovan and Magnoma kept close together and the two latter came in the nose and nose amid the greatest excitement.

In the two last Nightingale had it much her own way and won easily both times by six or eight lengths.

Biddy Donovan	1	1	2	2	3
Magnoma	3	3	1	1	2
Nightingale	2	2	3	3	1

Time—2:30, 2:31, :33, 2:33½, 2:30½, 2:32½.

It was after 6 o'clock when the last heat was run, and as it was then growing dark, Judge Cumming announced that the deciding heat would be postponed until to-morrow. As there is considerable money up on the result, there will be a large attendance this afternoon.

In the running race ($100) there were but three starters, and it was a tame affair. Following is the result:

Barstons	1	1
Osage Prince	2	2
Roger Eastman	3	3

Time—54, 55

The clever exhibitions given during the intermissions by Prof. A. L. Van Norman were watched with the closest attention and attracted a great deal of interest.

BIDDY DONOVAN WINS.

In the final heat of the tie race yesterday, trotted this afternoon Biddy Donovan won by six lengths, with Magnoma second and Nigatingale third.

Caught Selling Liquor.

Yesterday Deputy Revenue Collector George E. Coy run up against a fellow who was selling liquor on the grounds with out a license. The selling of intoxicating liquors on the grounds is strictly prohibited, but it was reported that certain parties were putting "sticks" in soda water at 10 cents a glass and the collector caught on.

Selling Fraudulent Tickets.

A gentleman called at the BEE office on the grounds yesterday forenoon and reported that he had seen a man outside the gate sell seven tickets at 35 cents each—15 cents below regular admission rates. The BEE reported the fact to Secretary Crane, who proceeded at once to make an investigation. It is believed that the tickets were fraudulent.

Squabble Over Awards.

There was a red hot time yesterday noon over certain awards made by the judge in class No. 9. Billy Moorehouse was given first and there was trouble. Joe Popp's handsome biseck, which carried ev rything before him at Detroit, was not given what Mr. Popp regarded as fair consideration, and the impulsive Joseph laid down the law to the judge in a way that he will not soon forget.

It was however, hard to decide although the crowd unanimously gave Popp's horse the palm. The judge was a good deal in the position of the fellow with the two girls, each of them equally charming, he sighed,

"How happy could I be with either,
Were the other dear charmer away."

Both gentlemen should, however, be satisfied, as both drew several first prizes.

The Asylum Bazaar.

The asylum bazaar is being well patronized. Mrs. Kelly and Ed Reed are in charge. At first it was decided not to have a bazaar this year, and no effort was made in this direction until two weeks ago. The patients and those in charge have worked hard, and a beautiful exhibition of fancy work is the result. There are handsome rugs woven by the inmates from the old worn out carpets, aprons, cushions, shawls, quilts and all sorts of fancy articles. Everything is artistically worked. One of the curiosities at the bazaar are minature houses carved by one of the inmates of the strong ward. The proceeds of this year's bazaar will bs used to purchase books for the patient's library.

The Whitney & Currier Co.

"It looks so substantial and complete," was the general verdict of the crowd at the fair regarding the magnificent exhibit of the Whitney & Currier Co.

There is no denying the fact that when it comes to showing high grade instruments, this company can easily discount all other dealers in northwestern Ohio. The display of a dozen or more pianos at the fair grounds seemed to make no impression upon their large stock in their warerooms, where the floors are filled with pianos of all styles, and at prices that astonish those buyers who have priced pianos elsewhere. One always knows where to find the Whitney & Currier Co. They have occupied the same store for 21 years and always carry a full line of the standard pianos of the world.

Lion Coffees and Spices.

The Woolson Spice Co., who are always known to be the most judicious and liberal advertisers, are not only making an excellent display of their coffees and spices in the main building at the Exposition grounds this week, but have done a clever act by buying tickets of admission to the fair for their employes at 35 cents apiece, accepting only 25 cents for same from the persons for whom they were secured. When it is known that they have in their employ some three hundred people the dropping of a dime on each ticket means a considerable to the company, but the generous act is very much appreciated by the recipients of the tickets who have enjoyed their visit to the fair to the fullest extent. It is perhaps needless to add that the Woolson Spice Co's showing is a drawing card. Mr. Dyer and Mr. Meek are kept busy supplying the crowds of people with their beautiful cards. Lion Coffee has taken a firm hold of all those who enjoy a good cup of coffee.

The Vegetable Palace.

The interior of the vegetable palace is decorated in a novel manner. The main supports appear to be corinthian pillars made of corn at the base, oats farther up, and capped with pumpkins. The freeze around the interior walls is four feet deep and made entirely of corn stalks. Rising from a fountain in the center of the building is a huge tree. The display is well arranged and department bright, clean and inviting.

Artificial Horses.

Henry Schweibold, manufacturer of life size artificial horses, makes a very interesting display in main building. The artificial horse has become very popular as a general display sign and Mr. Schweibold has met with deserved success as a manufacturer of this line of goods. His place of business is at 21 and 23 South Erie street.

Wheeler & Wilson No. 9.

Mr. A. Austin is making his usual fine display in Sewing Machines—the best on earth—in the north and south wings of main building. It is a grand exhibit and shows the enterprise and push of the agent whom everybody knows does business at 317 Adams street.

Lang, Hollinger & Darby

Make a very creditable showing in their line of business in the main building at exposition grounds. Their standard goods in the line of cigars and confectionery are among the best in the market, which is shown by the rapidly increasing business of the house. Their trade extends over all the states, and the house on Monroe street is kept busy in manufacturing and filling their orders. Messrs. Lang, Hollinger & Darby are certainly deserving of the success they have won.

The Mammoth Tea Pot

Continues to hold the fort in main hall for the Dault Glass & Crockery company, whose place of business is at 236 Summit street, where exposition visitors are invited to call.

The Chapman Hardware Company,

Whose exhibit of bicycles and type-writers attracts so much attention in the west wing of main hall, is composed of young men full of energy and push, backed by the necessary capital to insure a successful business career. They are making a specialty of the wheel business and have already an established and profitable trade in this line, besides doing a good trade in general shelf hardware. Their place of business is at 515 and 517 Adams street.

C. J. Woolley & Co.

The crowds gathered around the display of pianos made by this enterprising firm in the south wing of main hall and admired the elegant finish of those beautiful Chickering, Kroeger, Kurtzman and Stuyvesant pianos, as they listened to the sweet-toned music produced from them by Mr. Stackhouse. This firm is selling some of the oldest makes of pianos and coming to the front rapidly in the volume of trade enjoyed. The fine toned, superbly finished instruments they are selling keep their business in the front rank.

Sterling & Co.

The business of this well-known firm is confined exclusively to carpet and draperies. The extensive trade they have in northern Ohio enables them to carry the largest line of goods in this city. In their exhibit near center of Main building they are showing some of the brightest and most beautiful things in carpets ever seen in Toledo, while the display of oriental rugs and imported draperies call forth exclamations of surprise and admiration from all the ladies on account of their richness and beauty. Mr. A. R. Sisson, the manager, is recognized as one of the best judges of goods in this line in the country.

J. W. Greene & Co.

American people of this day look around for the purpose of seeing the new things being produced by those who are possessed of modern ideas. The above firm have progressed beyond the point where they exhibit only the old style, somber rosewood and ebony cases, and are showing upright pianos of the Kranich & Bach, Conover, Vose & Son, and other makes in beautiful cases in natural wood finish. All these pianos have an established reputation for superior workmanship and finish, while the richness of tone and delicacy of touch are unsurpassed. The sweet toned Estey, Wilcox & White and Packard organs also come in for a liberal share of attention from musical people. The Standard sewing machine sold by Messrs. Greene & Co. is the greatest triumph of the sewing machine makers' art. It does a vast amount of fine work that cannot be executed on any other machine, making Roman embroidery in imitation of hand work originated with the Standard people and is not done by any other machine. Persian embroidery is a new thing in hand work, now successfully imitated by the Standard. Oriental lace work done on very delicate fabric also originated with the Standard.

Finding it impossible to make a display on the exposition grounds this year, Messrs. Greene & Co. invite visitors and others to call and see them in their elegant quarters in the new Pythian castle.

Fine Carriage Display.

John Bladon & Son, the well known carriage manufactures are making their display this year at their factory and salesroom on Ontario street, opposite the new Pythian castle, where they have a superb line of new work, comprising stylish, easy-riding surrys, handsome carriages and substantial end-spring buggies with and without tops. They make a light family surry, which is undoubtedly the most desirable family carriage put up in the city.

F.ir Notes.

Yesterday was a big day.

The side shows were right in it.

No drunks seen on the grounds this year

The weather is perfect at the grounds to-day.

Mr. Crane is the busiest man on the grounds.

The Toledo Rubber company's display is a good one.

There is about 15,000 people at the exposition to-day.

The best of the Libbey display is that it belongs to Toledo.

To-morrow there will be a bicycle race and gentlemen's race.

The rug-making machine attracted considerable attention.

About fifty inmates from the infirmary visited the fair to-day.

Taylor & Lazenby gave away 200 boxes of gum this morning.

The hokey-pokey ice cream men did a lucrative business to-day.

The grand stand was free to all who desired to see the races to-day.

There were 4,000 people on the grand stand yesterday afternoon.

Miss Nellie Dunning's artistic china decorations has been highly complimented.

All the children in town were at the fair to-day—that is, if appearances go for anything.

Several O. Y. C. gentlemen and their ladies called at the Wooley booth yesterday and furnished some good vocal music; no medals.

Mrs. Geo. B. Orwig has a fine exhibit of fancy work, and has received several premiums.

Mr. Maynard Kinney is assisting Mr. Stackhouse with some fine music at C. F. Wooley's booth.

The Crescent drag brought a party of prominent society people out to view the races yesterday.

W. E. Cawood says that he never saw so many pretty young ladies at a fair before in his life."

Mrs. Scammel assisted Mr. Scammel with the instrumental music at Whitney & Currier's.

The 2:29 race will be finished this afternoon and there will be a three year old pacing race.

J. G. Gartner & Co. took a large number of premiums on floral exhibits, as did also R. G. W. Foster.

To-morrow everybody will be admitted to grounds for 25 cents; grand stand free. Special attractions.

Eight or ten ladies assisted Mrs. Wooley in receiving her many friends to-day at this delightfully artistic booth.

Worts, Kirk & Bigelow treated the children from the Lucas County Children's home to candy this morning.

The female patients of the asylum visited the exposition this afternoon and were delighted with what they saw.

It was rumored yesterday that Mr. Geo. Davis had purchased a fast horse. Mr. Davis emphatically denied the report.

Miss Marie Pomery, who has had entire supervision of the art department, has done efficient work, and the exhibitors are highly pleased with the arrangement of the display.

Mr. Williams, of Auburndale, was taken seriously ill on the grounds yesterday. Parks' ambulance was called and conveyed the sick man to his home.

Mrs. Glann, of St. Louis, and Mrs. Morse were among the visitors at the fair yesterday. Mrs. Glann will be Mrs. Morse's guest at Auburndale for about two weeks.

The ladies of the Fifth Presbyterian church are highly pleased with their successful week at the fair. They will serve first-class meals all day to-morrow. Call on them.

There are five tame white rats in the poultry building and these with eight rabbits and a fox squirrel afford considerable pleasure to the children, with whom they are very playful.

The judging of the art exhibits is believed to be conscientiously and well done. The ladies judge was from the southeastern part of the state and fully competent to fulfil her duties.

One of the centers of attractions in the poultry department is a Japanese fowl, the first ever exhibited in this country. The feathers are white and look just like fur, so fine and fluffy are they.

Miss Jennie Pailleper of Detroit avenue, caught her dress in the wheel of a wagon, causing her to fall and seriously injure her shoulder and arm. This is the first accident that has occurred on the grounds.

The ladies of the Third Presbyterian church, whose dining hall is in the Octagon pavilion, near vegetable palace, were rushed all day yesterday taking care of the hungry people. They served an excellent meal.

It is regretted that more Toledo ladies who are proficient in needle work and art do not take more interest in the exhibits and make displays at our Toledo fair. As it is the premiums for the best and largest display of fancy work went to Columbus.

The following prominent people were noticed on the grand stand yesterday: Mr John A Moore, Mr W M Boos, Mr and Mrs Bennet, Mr and Mrs Carlton Walbridge, Mrs Ed Stock, Mr and Mrs Murray Moore, Miss Zoe Moore, Miss Genie Baldwin, Mr and Mrs Ashton Coldham, Miss Brainard, Miss Moulton, Mr Manley and many others.

Mr. Campbell wants to know why it is that it appears to be necessary to compliment a woman on that which she does not possess. Tell a woman that she is beautiful and she is offended; tell her that she is good natured and she is highly pleased. Is it because women are usually cross? Taylor & Lazenby will give a large stick of candy to the prettiest woman at the fair to-day. It is not known who she is.

Sensational Talk at the Track This Afternoon—The Authorities Investigating.

Sensational rumors were flying around among the stables to day, to the effect that the people of Toledo had been "Latonized."

In other words, it is given out that the horse Quickstep, which won the 2-year-old race from Nyanza yesterday, was a "Ringer," brought here for the purpose which the result of the race showed plainly was accomplished.

Immediately after the race the owners got their cash and departed with their horse for other fields.

Prominent horsemen at the grounds claim that Quickstep was an S-year-old and that she has won many races that put her far out of the class in which the horse was entered.

The matter is now being investigated, and if the rumor proves correct, and the horse is found, vigorous action will be taken.

LOCAL HAPPENING.

Work has been commenced on the Erie street pipe line.

There will be a picnic at Monclova on the 19th inst. A big time is expected. Don't fail to go.

Best and cheapest shoes in Toledo. Davis Shoe Store, Cherry, near Summit. Reason: A new store, have a trade to build up.

Mr. Robert Sherrard, of Springville, Mich., has a very fine peach orchard, some forty acres, and his crop this year will amount to fully 1,500 bushels. The BEE has sampled the product, and it is of the finest.

The fire department was called to the corner of Summit and Monroe streets at 1:15 this afternoon, where a fire was caused by the upsetting of a coal oil stove in the saloon next to Vanstone's. The fire was extinguished bsfore any great damage was done.

100 Different styles of bed-room suites, some as low as $15.

INDIANA TAXES.

Indianapolis, Ind., Sept. 11.—The state board of tax commissioners completed its 40 days' session yesterday. It made enormous increases in the assessment of all kinds of property. The greatest increase was made on railroads, which are assessed at $90,000,000 more than in 1890. The 1890 assessment was $89,762,676. This year's assessment is fixed by the board at $160,809,575.

WENT DOWN AT SEA.

Rome, Sept. 11.—News has reached here of a terribly disastrous collision off Cape Sunium. The Italian Messageries steamer Taormina collided with the Greek steamer Thessalia.

The former vessel almost instantly sank; the captain, several of the crew and forty cabin passengers who were standing on the bridge of the Taormina at the moment of the collision were rescued by the boats of the Thessalia.

Cape Sunium is on the southeastern coast of Greece.

SHERMAN'S LETTER.

John Writes Postmaster Brown an Interesting Epistle.

He Wants No Contests, But Seeks the Senatorship.

Sherman Faction Indorse Rorick for State Senator—Jim Southard is on the Fence and Won't Come Off.

Postmaster James M. Brown is in receipt of a letter from Senator John Sherman, in which the Mansfield statesman significantly says:

"I court no contest, but will esteem it a high compliment if no one unfavorable to me is returned to the legislature or the senate."

It does not require a master mind to interpret the communication. John Sherman wants to be returned to the United States senate, and while he "courts no contest," he will not back out if compelled to fight.

On to Washington is now the rallying cry of the Sherman faction, and no quarter is the word.

Ex-Gov. Foraker has also sent a cautiously worded epistle to an esteemed personal friend in this city, and it is somewhat of a puzzle, at least it was until a Columbus friend threw a vivid inside light on the document, which enabled his Toledo friend to read between the lines.

In substance the governor says he seeks no office, and somewhat mysteriously and significantly adds:

"Just keep your eyes open and wait."

What does this mean?

It means simply what the Bee stated two weeks ago. Foraker has placed his interests in this section in the hands of W. L. Squire, and Squire it is who is running Foraker's campaign in the northwestern reserve.

Old and tried friends like Clarence Brown, or new converts who would help Foraker in order to beat Sherman, like J. Kent Hamilton, don't like this arrangement a little bit.

"I'll be darned if I will follow where Squire leads," said an anti-Shermanite this morning.

"How did it happen that Sherman secured two out of the three candidates for the legislature in Lucas county, if Squire is running Foraker's campaign?" a Bee inquired.

"Never you mind. Squire is playing a shrewd game, and he is for Squire every time."

Local republicans are all torn up over the state senatorship, and there will be "wigs on the green" before the convention is over.

Dr. Rorick, indorsed by the Fulton county republican convention, has also been adorsed by the Sherman faction in Lucas county.

Wednesday, James M. Brown approached a republican leader heretofore identified with the Sherman interests and advocated Rorick.

"I am for any good man," said the gentleman addressed, "and I don't think the Sherman-Foraker fight should enter into the senatorship. We will have a tough time to elect the best men we can secure."

"Rorick is all right," said Mr. Brown, "and I feel that he can be elected."

Speaking on the subject with a Bee the gentleman referred to said:

"An hour after seeing Mr. Brown I was asked by Judge Austin if I would support Rorick. The judge seemed to think that Rorick is about the only man that can win. Putting this and that together, it is evident to me that Sherman has Rorick solid."

"Who is your other candidate?"

"Well, Jim Southard wants it, but so far he has failed to commit himself. Jim is shrewd. He knows that to be opposed by either faction means defeat, and he can't afford that. They threaten to run Kumler as a Shermanite, provided Southard fails to come to time. I know that Jim is naturally a Foraker man. He will have to come out one way or another before the convention."

Everything is not lovely for James, evidently.

DECLARED A BANKRUPT.

London, Sept. 11.—Lord Esme-Stewart Gordon, brother of the marquis of Huntley and heir to the marquisate, was to-day declared a bankrupt. He has unsettled debts amounting to $81,900, while his assets are placed at $7,630. Lord Gordon was born in 1833; married in 1874 to Elizabeth, only daughter of Wm. Brown Evre, of Glastonbury, Somerset. His elder brother, Charles Gordon, is the eleventh marquis of Huntley and premier marquis of Scotland. The title dates back to 1599.

CELEBRATED IN THE EAST.

Newport, R. I., Sept. 11.—The one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the Newport artillery and of the battle of Lake Erie were celebrated here yesterday. Many prominent visitors were present, among them the governor and staff. Ex-United States Senator Sheffield delivered the oration. A procession followed which was witnessed by many persons.

A PASTOR IN JAIL.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Sept. 11.—Rev. John Van Waggoner, of Cedar Springs, is repenting an error of judgment in the county jail. Van Waggoner caused the arrest of a young man for disturbing a revival meeting. The young man was not convicted and brought suit for damages by capias and secured a verdict of $35 with $67 costs. The pastor refused to pay and was put in jail. He has his prayer book and hymnal with him and is getting up a revival until his tormentors get weary of paying his board.

Wheat Quotations for the Day—Price Current for Produce and Other Articles.

The market quotations in the BEE are compiled from United Press special dispatches and from reports received by the Toledo Produce Exchange, and specially arranged by Mr. Denison B. Smith, secretary of the Exchange.

OFFICE OF THE TOLEDO BEE, TOLEDO, O., Sept. 11.

London wheat market at opening quiet, better feeling. Corn slow. Liverpool wheat dull, unchanged. Corn quiet.

Liverpool received in past six days 698,390 bu wheat, of which 506,600 was American; and 43,000 bu of corn.

The receipts of wheat at seven principal western points two days are 2,064,375 bu, compared with 702,261 bu on the same two days last year.

Canada Has Little Rye to Spare.

Ottawa, Ont., Sept. 7.—An inquiry has been made at the request of the British government as to the surplus quantity of rye Canada would have this year for export, with the result that the Dominion will not be able to spare more than from 250,000 to 300,000 bu for export to Great Britain.

The total rye crop of Ontario last year was only 1,500,000 bu.

An important discovery.—Thirty-six interesting observations have been made recently upon the life of Russian rye. Two native investigators—A. F. Batalin, a naturalist and member of the Imperial Botanic Garden at St. Petersburg, and L. F. Kandouroff, a farmer of Stavrobolsk province—have discovered that, under certain conditions, rye could be made a perennial plant, and also that with proper cultivation several crops might be harvested each year. The importance of this discovery is obvious. The variety of grain known as Sicilian mountain rye, grows at present in a wild state in Sicily, Spain, Morocco, Greece, Little Asia, Persia and the Caucasus, and is very similar in quality to the Russian rye.

The receipts of wheat for two days at seven principal western points are 1,362,114 bu in excess of the corresponding two days in 1890.

The export clearances in two days at four Atlantic ports are 722,331 bu of wheat and flour to an aggregate of 900,000 bu. The export movement has undoubtedly been shorn of its strength somewhat.

English markets as reported herein are dull without much change since Wednesday.

Ocean freight from New York has advanced to-day equal to ½c bu.

The Government Report.

Wheat—There is still too much uncertainty in this report to encourage close estimates of results based upon it. We can only with certainty forecast that the crop of wheat will, according to the phraseology used, be slightly better than in 1884 on an estimated production of 512,000,000 bu. But the stronger point in the detailed averages is, that in the larger wheat growing states those averages are the highest, and they are very promising. Undoubtedly this fact will greatly increase the aggregate yield. However, neither the tone of the report or the statistics are a justification for the immense estimates that have been placed on the crop. That feature, to our minds, is a salient one, as well as a conservative and prudent one.

Corn—In the month of July corn lost two points, and was reported at 90.8. In August it has recovered three-eights of one point to 91.1. This is 3.7 points below the August 1st estimate in 1889, when we had the largest crop. But not in corn as in wheat, some of the larger states do not give the largest percentage. The crop is yet left to the cruel fate of overestimates by railway managers and Wall street speculators, and underestimated by bull traders.

Sault Ste. Marie Canal.

The Canadian minister of customs has announced that their canal will be increased in depth to 19 feet, with approaches to correspond. We command this policy to our own government. The class of vessels now being built require great depth, and some years the level of the lakes is decreased two feet. With the effect of impairing the usefulness of the works, unless provided for by a margin of depth.

Markets Today.

Bull dealers in wheat have souls. There is no reasonable doubt of it, but to-day is about the first illustration we have had of it for some time. To-day they have not hid their heads in shame, because prices are improved. Receipts for two days show a little decreased movement especialy in winter wheat. The only state that has made any great addition to their wheat movement is the hissy state of Kansas, and now her editors are printing sensational articles about their receipts to the certain and inevitable damage to their prices of wheat. Editors know too much and print too much sometimes. The wheat from the northwest is coming out just as it does on every crop after harvest.

The wheat markets in the country have improved to-day, and the trading through the day up to 12 o'clock indicates an average of about 1c advance all along the line, after which there was a still greater upward movement.

Corn declined ½c in New York, but recovered the loss.

There is nothing new in the market factors, only that the English decline is checked, and the shorts are frightened, as usual, and covering their deals. The advance in wheat was the greatest in New York. Corn finally closed lower.

In New York September wheat closed 2½c and December 2½c up. September corn 1¾c and October 1c lower. In Chicago September wheat gained ½c and December ⅞c. September corn lost 1¾c and October 1c.

In Toledo there has been only moderate trading in wheat futures to-day. Not much outside demand from east or west and more of an evening up than otherwise.

The record of sales shows a sharp improvement and prices closed at the best of the day. On the call December wheat sold at 98⅜@99c and May at $1 05⅜. After the call September sold at 94¼@97c and closed at 96¾c, a gain since Wednesday of 3¼c; October sold at 95½@96c and closed at 95⅝c. December sold at 99c and closed at $1 01⅛, a gain of 3c. May sold at $1 06¼ and closed worth $1 77½. After change December sold to the extent of 45,000 bus at $1 01⅝.

Cash wheat was in good demand and closed worth 3½c above Wednesday; No 2 soft sold at 94¼@95c and closed worth 96⅜c; No 3 soft sold early at 92c; No 4 soft at 87c; rejected No 1 at 81c; No 2 at 75c; No 1 white at 93½c.

Corn—No 2, 65c; No 3 at 64c; No 3 yellow at 66c.

Rye was a shade weaker than Wednesday; No 2 at 90½c to 91c cash, and closing at 91c for October; No 3 at 88c.

Clover seed was active but lower. On the call October sold at $4 67½@4 65. After the call September at $4 65, October at $4 62½@4 65, December at $4 65@4 75, No 2 at $4 40@4 35@4 67½, closing at $4 42.

Governments steady; currency, 6s 110½ bid; 4s coupon, 117 bid; extended 2s registered, 99½ bid.

The excellent character of government crop report, issued after the close of business yesterday, had the effect of strengthening values this morning. The opening figures were generally a fraction higher than yesterday's closing. Rock Island advanced 1½ per cent, Burlington 1¼, and C, C, C & St L 1⅜. The advance was maintained only in a few instances during the early dealings. Toward the end of the first hour whisky trusts became very strong, advancing from 48¾ to 51 and afterwards declining to 50c. Lake Shore was also very strong at 11 o'clock and advanced to 131¾. The remainder of the list, with few exceptions, failed to respond and at 11 o'clock figures were but little changed from those current yesterday. The market was fairly active after 11 o'clock but was very weak. The little strength of the first hour entirely disappeared. Prices gave way shalply under the lead of Union Pacific, Lake Shore, Burlington, Mo. Pac. and whisky trusts. The bottom figures of the morning were current at midday. The decline ranged from ¼@2¾ per cent. At this writting the market is barely steady. The sales amounted to 191,900 shares.

Flax Seed.

Chicago, Sept. 11.—Flax—No 1 cash, $1 00; September, $1 00; steady.

LONDON WOOL MARKET.

London, Sept. 11.—At the wool sales to-day 14,200 bales, over half of which was New Zealand and Victoria, were offered. There was a good attendance and the competition was also good. Parcels of inferior and damaged sold slowly. Home and foreign buyers operated freely. Cross-breds were eagerly taken. The better merinos were also wanted. New Zealand scoureds attracted much attention. Cape of Good Hope and Natal sold readily DEMOCRATIC Senatorial Convention.

The democrats of the Thirty-Third Senatorial district will assemble in the city of Ottawa, Putnam county, on Thursday, September 24, at 10 o'clock a m, for the purpose of placing in nomination two candidates to represent the district in the Ohio Senate.

The basis of apportionment is fixed at one delegate for every 100 votes and fraction over 50 cast for Hon. T. E. Peckinpaugh, candidate for secretary of state in November, 1890.

Each county will be entitled to representation as follows:

	Vote.	Delegates.
Wood	4,127	41
Lucas	7,361	74
Putnam	3,543	35
Henry	3,333	33
Fulton	1,934	20
Hancock	4,674	47
Total		250

By order of the committee.
H. C. GROSCHNER, Chairman.
W. H. HANDY, Secretary.

McKinley's picnic will be over when Gov. Campbell enters the campaign. Our Jimmy will chase him off the field as easily as he unhorsed Foraker two years ago.

The Germans of Lucas county will hardly vote for a man who denied his nationality. Such a man is Charles A. Flickinger, one of the republican candidates for representative.

Dr. Rorick, of Fulton county, desires the republican nomination for senator in this district. Personally he is a fine gentleman, but how does he stand on Sherman-Foraker fight? That must be known to a certainty by the Toledo politicians.

McKinley is as versatile as John Sherman in getting on all sides of the silver question. But he cannot dodge the record of his tariff montrosity. Especially at this time are the farmers thoroughly interested in this particular branch of politics, and they have clubs to hit the author of the law that made wool lower and general taxes higher.

The Indianapolis Journal says: "It seems now as if money can not defeat McKinley in Ohio." Nobody in this state thought it could, but it "seems now" as if money can not elect McKinley in Ohio, and that's what's worrying the republican brethren. Money is not going to decide this canvass, not even if the United States treasury is dumped into the state, as the brethren threaten shall be done. It's a free ballot and a fair count this year, and it's Campbell will be counted in on it.

The democratic county convention will be held on September 19, and the caucuses will be held the previous evening under the primary system. The Bee cannot too highly commend the wisdom of the committee in deciding upon this method of choosing delegates. It signifies that the democratic voters will have an opportunity to express their preferences for delegates, and the result will surely be a good convention and a splendid ticket. The democrats can win in Lucas county this fall if they make judicious nominations. The work is well begun.

The jury in the Park Place case brought in the regulation verdict. Perhaps if anything it is a little more stupid than such verdicts usually are. The jury discovered that the people killed lost their lives by the collapse of the building, which of course no one knew until the jury did discover it. The jury further found out nothing, but they surmise that a sudden shock caused the building to fall. Whether there was an explosion or not they were unable to say. It is safe to predict that the other 599 unsafe buildings in New York city will stand till they fall. If no one is to be held responsible for the Park Place horror, no one is going to tear down any other unsafe building.

The People's Party will not cut much of a figure in the Ohio campaign this year. The leaders are too much interested in old party lines and are entirely too insincere in their advocacy of the movement which swept Kansas last fall. They are political farmers. So, being in poor hands, and having a state ticket that does not command confidence, the party will go the way of many other reform movements. But, while this is true of the People's Party, there is a large agricultural vote in Ohio that will not support McKinley for governor. His every political act in congress has been against the interests of the farmers. He is a high taxer and a restrictionist of American trade. He is the special champion of the plutocrats and monopolists of this country. He is the author of the present tariff monstrosity that has decreased the price of American wool. The farmers of Ohio are familiar with Mr. McKinley's record and they will not vote for him.

OUR TRADE WITH CHILE.

An interesting report from Consul McCreery on American-Chilean trade is sent out by the state department. From the investigations the consul has made since he was sent to Chile in June, 1890, he is convinced that the United States has in that country a valuable market, and one that is little understood. The wares of our manufacturers are not brought to Chilean markets in the right manner, and what we could supply is not well enough known to Chilean consumers because not judiciously advertised in that country.

Again, too much time is consumed in getting our goods to this market. The carrying trade between New York and Boston and the Chilean coast, is at present done in sailing vessels, via Cape Horn. The average voyage is about three months long, and adding the time for the transmission, execution and loading of an order, the time between the order and its delivery is about six months. Consul McCreery favors the establishment of a line of steamers between New York and Callao, via the straits of Magellan, stopping at Rio de Janeiro, Montevideo, Buenos Ayres, Valparaiso and other points, by which route he thinks the time might be reduced two and even three months.

The total value of imports to Chile from the United States in forty-six years, 1844-89, was $91,674,630. The Chilean exports to this country in the same period are valued at $86,474,262. The increase in the imports from the United States in 1889 was 22.62 per cent. It was on 1889 the last statistics could be obtained by Consul McCreery.

In that year some of our principal exports to Chile were vegetable oil, $28,993; mineral oil, $595,000; turpentine, $24,140; refined sugar, $57,535; cut nails, $62,879; coopers' staves, $150,000; flannel, $169,706; cottons of all sorts, $289,848; pine and other lumber, $998,831; railway material, $259,077.

Our principal imports from Chile for the same year were: Hemp seed, $1,512.55; goat skins, $2,946.65; walnuts, $8,039.64; beans, $11,996; sheep's wool, $224,297; iodine, $482,800; nitrate of soda, $2,990,256.

Consul McCreery is of the opinion that Chile offers a large field for products of the United States, which while not an unlimited one is capable of great expansion. It is not suitable for all our manufactures, a caution he finds it necessary to give because he has observed that "considerable confusion exists not only in the minds of our manufacturers, but also in those of many persons who profess to write for their information, respecting Chile and South American countries generally. For instance," he says, "Chile, unlike Peru, does not produce sugar, rice or cotton; consequently there is no market there for machinery applicable to the raising and treating of those articles."

Our imports from Chile he believes should be confined to nitrate, iodine, guano, manganese and wool. Of the first of these he says:

"If our farmers were acquainted with the extraordinary fertilizing properties of nitrate, and especially for beet culture, I feel sure they would become large consumers of this substance. * * * In ten months (January to October) of last year the exportation of nitrate amounted to 681,241 metric tons, and by far the greater portion of this large quantity went to Germany to be applied as a fertilizer to beets."

DISHONEST VALUES.

Messrs. Sherman and McKinley—Gents: Permit us to inform you, with due respect, that the people of Ohio are not either suffering or complaining on account of "dishonest money," concerning which you are having so much to say. It is of "dishonest values," forced upon them by dishonest tariff legislation, that they are asking relief from. Do you catch on?—Bellefountaine Examiner.

THEY WILL CLAIM IT.

Notwithstanding the fact that McKinley and his co-stumpers and all republican papers in Ohio ignore the tariff question and endeavor by all their arts to make silver coinage the one issue in the Ohio campaign every mother's son of them will claim a great victory for protection in the event of McKinley's election.—Bryan Democrat.

NEVER RAINS BUT IT POURS.

The McKinley bill has been a deathblow to the wool-growers of Ohio, but now comes the republican buzzard, sometimes called an "eagle" that will play havoc among the farmers' lambs. Republican evils "come not singly but in battalions."—Mt. Vernon Banner.

WHO CREATED IT?

If the silver dollar is dishonest, who made it dishonest? What party is responsible for the Bland-Allison law of 1878? What party is responsible for the 4,500,000 ounce per month law of 1890? —Champaign Democrat.

LET THEM HAVE IT.

The democrats are not frightened to hear that McKinley is attracting great crowds in Ohio. The more protection talk the people hear the less likely are they to vote for the republican candidate.—Atlanta Journal.

CAN HARRISON ANSWER?

The name of Mahone appears to be inseparable from Virginia republican politics. Is this because he represents the opposition to Blaine in that state? Can Mr. Harrison answer?—St. Louis Republic.

WHY SOLICIT BOODLE.

If McKinley is so almighty stout in Ohio what's the use of big campaign boodle to elect him? It looks as though they didn't have the confidence they pretend to have in the tariff and silver questions as winning issues.—Wauseon Expositor.

ROUGH ON THE HOME MARKET.

The republican rejoicing over the admission to Germany of American pork, is an evidence that they do not consider McKinley's home market sufficiently large to dispose of that article.—Springfield Democrat.

A QUERY.

With the republicans routed on the tariff question even before the democrats have opened their campaign batteries, what will the situation be when the democrats take a hand in the fight?—Clinton County Democrat.

A STRONG MAN.

WILL NOT REPUDIATE.

Chili Will Pay All of Balmaceda's Debts.

Twenty-Seven Millions of Paper Money Afloat.

The Junta Taking Every Care in the Work of Placing the Government on a Sound Basis.

New York, Sept. 11.—The Herald's Valparaiso dispatch says the junta has under consideration the matter of what shall be done with the $27,000,000 of paper money issued by the late President Balmaceda.

The principal banks throughout the country are closed pending their decision. The general opinion is that it will be impossible for the government to repudiate it. It is said that it is the present intention of the junta to assume the responsibility for the entire amount and that they are considering a plan by which it shall be redeemed in five years, and at the end of that time specie payments will be resumed.

There is a possibility, however, of their holding the whole matter in abeyance, allowing the new congress to settle it.

Government leaders say that as soon as the new congress meets its first action will be to approve the actions of the previous congress up to December, 1890, and of the junta since the commencement of the revolution.

The acts of Balmaceda's congress will be repudiated.

The constitution will be revised to the extent of materially curtailing the powers of the executive at all events, and perhaps in other respects as well.

There is no likelihood that there will be increase in customs duties. Foreign diplomats believe that the present government is actuated by patriotic motives and will be able and willing to do good work.

The Herald's Santiago dispatch says that Senor Augustin Edwards has joined the cabinet of the provisional government as minister of public works, and Manuel Aletta as minister of foreign affairs.

This forms a coalition of all political sections in the country, except, of course, the Balmacedists. Political leaders are now consulting as to the candidate for the presidency. It is generally believed now that Senor Ramon Barros Lucos will be selected.

The United States steamer San Francisco has received orders from Washington to sail at once for California. It is thought her ultimate destination is Samoa. The Baltimore will remain at Valparaiso for the present.

SHORT OF MONEY.

Council Committees Do Some Close Figuring

For Several Necessary Harbor and Bridge Improvements—New Bridges Needed—Other Business.

There was a good attendance of councilmen and lobbyists at the council committee meetings last evening. A number of important matters came up, but the amount of business transacted was not large.

The committees on harbor and commerce and ways and means held a joint meeting to discuss harbor improvements which are badly needed, but for which there is no money.

The first subject for consideration was the dredging of Goose Point bar from Monroe street to Madison street, for which bids have been received. The bids for dredging three cuts, to a depth of 15 feet, are as follows: J. C. and J. H. Davis, $3,950; James Rooney, $3,400.

The improvement is badly needed, but there is no money to pay for it. Considerable discussion ensued as to ways and means, and finally Mr. Pheatt, Engineer Wickenden, Auditor Walker and Solicitor Read were appointed a committee to confer with the property owners and see what can be done in the way of receiving funds.

Mr. Macomber brought up the matter of certificates for the Lagrange and Hawley street sewers which will soon fall due, with no money to meet them. After some discussion Messrs. Albrecht, Potter, Macomber, Auditor Walker and Solicitor Read were appointed a committee to confer with the sinking fund trustees on the matter.

Mr. Cowdell stated that it would be time to let the contract for paving Bridge street next Thursday and the fund is about $2,000 short. It is necessary to have the money in the treasurer's hands before a contract can be awarded, and he asked that the committee devise some means of raising it so that the contract can be let and part of the work completed this fall. The street is impassible in its present shape.

This was another sticker, but it was stated that the property owners were willing to put up the money, and Auditor Walker was instructed to issue certificates of indebtedness for the required amount. If the money is forthcoming in time the contract will be let.

Mr. Pheatt called the committee's attention to the fact that the legislature last winter authorized the city to issue $15,000 worth of bonds for bridge purposes. Another bridge is badly needed to relieve the traffic on the Perry street bridge over Swan creek, and on his motion the auditor was instructed to prepare an ordinance authorizing the issue of the bonds.

At the request of the committee Engineer Wickenden said that he would prepare plans for a new bridge at Lafayette street.

In this connection Mr. Wickenden also stated that a new bridge is badly needed at St. Clair street. The old wooden bridge was built something over nineteen years ago. About seven years ago the top part was rebuilt, but the original lower structure was left, and now the bridge is only supported by a few rotten piles.

* * *

The street committee approved an ordinance for the cleaning of Irving street and appointed Messrs. J. C. Romeis and W. S. Daly commissioners to look after the work.

A resolution was approved to turnpike Germania street from Detroit avenue to Brown avenue.

The resolution to vacate part of Spielbusch avenue was reapproved.

An ordinance was approved to pave Lagrange street from Champlain to Bancroft.

Bids for the filling and improving of Union street were rejected for the reason that they considered the prices too high and the contractors would not agree to have the work done on time.

* * *

The railroad committee approved an ordinance granting to the Robison Electric Railway company the right to double-track their line on Galena street, from Ontario to Chase.

* * *

The fire committee granted permission to Mr. John Conway to build a frame residence on Fourteenth street, between Adams and Madison, which is within the fire limits.

* * *

The sidewalk committee approved a number of resolutions for new sidewalks.

ANOTHER EXTENSION.

We have McKinleyism and can get more sugar for one dollar, etc., but the receipts of the government are growing rapidly smaller. There is an apparent danger that Secretary Foster will have to ask another "extension."—Dayton Times.

GOOD ORDER

Prevailing During the Fair—A Remarkably Quiet Week.

Considering that this is fair week and the crowds of strangers in the city, together with the gangs of fakirs and skin game men who are drawn here by the fair, this has been a remarkably quiet week in police circles.

The number of arrests has not been so large as last week, and the city is very quiet at night, when usually during fair time there is a large amount of carousing and petty crime. There have not been any more drunks than usual, and the police have been surprised at the good order prevailing.

"I never saw such a quiet fair week," said Lieutenant Robinson. "Usually when there is such a crowd in the city we are kept very busy, but this week has been no worse than others. We have not even had the loss of a pocketbook reported from the fair, which is something unusual. We have had a squad of men on the race track every afternoon, but they have had no trouble in keeping good order. When the crowd returns from the fair they generally make a lively night of it, but matters have been very dull this week, and even many of the saloons are closing up early."

THE PEOPLE'S PARTY.

"Rascality, Thy Name is John Sherman."

Mrs. Emery's Opinion of the Man Who Thinks He Has a Cinch on One of Ohio's Seats in the Senate.

The September air on the Maumee is a little too raw out of doors to make it real comfortable for an audience to stand on the sidewalk to listen to open air speaking. It is the more to the credit of Mrs. S. E. V. Emery, of Lansing, Mich., who spoke for the people's party in Ohio last evening from the band stand on Madison street that she was not only able to hold the small number who awaited her speech, but that her audience increased to fair-sized numbers before she had concluded.

Mrs. Emery is one of those who are characterized as "calamity shriekers," since she holds that our country is not in a prosperous state, notwithstanding the nation's wealth averages a thousand dollars a head, and insists that no country can be prosperous that has thousands upon thousands of mortgaged homes. When the politician is so far cornered as to admit there is too much general distress he offers certain reasons for it, said the speaker in opening, and then reviewed those reasons.

First, the extravagance of farmers and town laborers. This, the speaker seemed to think, merited no more than a general denial. Second, that there was too much work resulting from the demoralized condition in which the soldiers returned home at the close of the war. This accusation was a most infamous lie, and its application was only possible to the class who robbed the soldier, while he was risking life itself in defense of his country. Third, the too large foreign element. There was something in this. American institutions were in danger from foreigners, but it was not the poor man, foreign-born, who came to this country to delve in its mines or toil on its railroads. It was the foreign-born capitalist who remained in the country of his birth and bought up our bonds, invested his capital in our industries, and drew his revenues from us to spend them in his own country. Fourth, intemperance and the saloon. There was something in this. But the country's institutions were not threatened by the thousands of poor men marching to drunkards' graves, but by its state and national legislators' alcoholism.

The speaker then made the astounding statement that when the act demonetizing silver was passed, in 1873, congressmen didnot know it. Months after the president wrote a friend in the west that he did not understand why silver did not come in to the treasury to relieve the stringency in currency. If congressmen were not hynotized when they unknowingly passed this act, and if the president was not hypnotized when he signed it without knowing he was signing it, in what condition were they all?

This brought the speaker to the expression of her own views, which were that the country was suffering because there was not enough of the circulation medium. In her views there has been a giant money conspiracy manipulating governmental affairs ever since the war began. When President Lincoln, by the act of July, 1861, caused the issue of non-interest bearing treasury notes, payable for all debts, public and private, the Shylocks began their work.

The bankers held a convention, and succeeded in having inserted in the act of February, 1862, the exception clause, which provided that duties on imports and interest on the public debt should be paid in coin. So they created a demand for their gold, and greenbacks depreciated. The next Shylock scheme for robbing the people was the national bank act, in 1863. This third scheme was a contraction of the currency, by destroying the greenbacks, by the act of 1866, which provided for their calling in and cremation. The credit-strengthening act, providing for the payment of the 5-20 bonds in gold; the act providing for the refunding of the national debt; the demonetization of silver in 1873, and resumption were the remaining steps of the conspiracy.

"What man above all others," said the speaker impressively, "is responsible for the success of all these plots against the people? Who but the man whom you people of Ohio have kept in the senate for Wall street to use for the last 25 years? Rascality, thy name is John Sherman. Nero only danced when Rome was burning; he did not ask the people over whom he tyrannized to perpetuate his tyranny. But John Sherman, who has been the bankers' friend and tool and your enemy, dares to come and ask you to give him a chance to do another six years' dirty work. He boasts to you that the republican party is the author of all the legislation of the last 25 years, including this financial record I have shown you, including the building up of prohibitive protection, including the wasteful grants of public lands to railroad companies, and for once in his life he tells the truth. I thank God no other party than the republican party is responsible for all thest things."

The speaker paid her respects to the McKinleyed tariff in a manner that showed the cry of "protection to American labor" had not fooled her. Indeed, she said, the speaker who dared tell the laboring man there was any bentfit for him in protection took the laboring man for an idiot.

Three engines for the destruction of this republic were mounted, trained and manned, as outgrowths of the war. The first of these was Wall street, whose Gattling gun John Sherman had industriously tended ever since. The second was corporate monopolies, fostered and nurtured ever since by class legislation, enacted by the republican party, the protective tariff the most of all this class legislation. The third was the solid south, whose banner of the bloody shirt John J. Ingalls had frantically waved until Kansas retired him to private life.

The speaker closed with an earnest appeal to Ohio voters to forget the dead issues of a long-past war, to rise above the party prejudices in which they have been trained, to know no north, no south, but to join in the alliance movement of the south and west, support the peoples' party platform and vote the ticket of its candidates in Ohio, and so achieve their own industrial emancipation.

Mrs. Emery is not a novice in political speaking, having been through two campaigns in Kansas and one in Illinois. She opened her work in Ohio here last evening. To-night she speaks in Delaware; to-morrow in Ostrander.

At the conclusion of her speech at the band stand, a meeting was held at Carpenter's hall with a view to forming an organization of the peoples' party in Toledo. Mr. J. A. Asper of the state committee spoke on the subject, and it was determined to hold a meeting next Monday night at the same place, to which the members of all labor unions are invited.

SURE THING FAKIRS.

How They Fleece the Innocent and Unwary.

Few Pointers From One of the Boys.

Among the many celebrities at the exposition, though he can hardly be classed as an attraction, was one of the cleverest fakirs in the country, and he was working several "sure thing" games. He is well known to the profession and police as "Top and Bottom Jimmie," but at his first christening he was named James McCoy. The story of his life would make a book equal to any yellow-covered dime novel.

Jimmie takes great pride in his ability to gull his fellow man, and considers any game legitimate. He is an adept in his art, as he calls it, and is equally at home with a wheel of fortune, a cane rack or three-card monte. It is also said that James takes a hand at green goods games and the like when the opportunity offers.

He was not after any big game here, and claimed to only be "working a small lay," to kill time and make expenses.

The fakir's business at fairs is nothing now to what it used to be," said McCoy, "and we now have a hard time to turn an honest penny. I am not beginning to keep up my end here now, yet some years ago, on these very same grounds, I pocketed a cool thousand dollars during three days of the Tri-State fair.

"The public are beginning to get onto us, and at some fairs we are barred out entirely. I have been working fakes' for some forty years, and in that time have fished for suckers in almost every state, so I know what I am talking about when I say business is getting bad. Still there is money in the business even yet, if it is properly handled, and, as a rule, the fakirs who work the fairs and such events make much more money than many men who work harder and pay close attention to regular business. Notwithstanding this, a fakir seldom lays up any coin ahead. As a class they are reckless, and what money they don't lose on the races or base ball pools, goes for drink or bumming.

"If I had saved the money I have made I would now be a rich man, and wouldn't have to work for a living. But here you see me working a cheap jewelry snap. Life is up and down with the fakir. One day he is eating ice cream and the next he is obliged to live on grass and snow-balls. Again he will come into a town stowed away in a box car, and he will leave it in a palace car, with a new suit of clothes and a silk hat. These very exciting changes in his life are what fascinate him to it, and it is very seldom that a fakir changes his occupation except from one skin game to another. Once a fakir, always a fakir. He is up to all the latest tricks to coax the dimes and dollars out of the pockets of the unwary, and he is forever trying to invent some new scheme for the same purpose. I have myself invented several games of chance that proved very profitable.

"I first started on the road with a patent medicine man, who was selling on the streets, and I made one of his tribe of Indians, which consisted of three white fellows like myself, but when 'made up' we were the fiercest Indians you ever saw.

"One day I got into a row with the 'Doctor,' and as he claimed I had stolen the cash box I was obliged to disappear very suddenly. I next made my appearance as a wild Zulu in a side show, but soon tired of that, and one day while out west I started a little game of three-card monte and a green farmer left me a cool $500 before he quit.

"After that I resolved to stop the side-business and travel on my own hook. I played the three cards and 'thimble rig' on the Mississippi river steamboats for a while, and then I made a tour through the southern states with the first living mermaid ever exhibited. At Atlanta my mermaid ran off with the bar tender at the cheap hotel where we were stopping, and as I had dropped my wad at a faro bank the night before, I was up a stump. Then, to top off my bad luck, I was shot in the leg by a fellow I tried to bunco, and after coming out of the hospital was obliged to serve six months in the workhouse.

"Then I started in to work country fairs, and have been at it almost every season yet. I have had cane racks, baby racks, jewelry and medicine snaps, wheels of fortune, bagatelle, strength testers and the like to a number too numerous to mention, and have run many chances with the police. At the fairs all the fakirs stand in with each other, and when a sucker is found they work him between them, so that what one don't get another does. Farmers, of course, are our best customers, but every once in a while some fly chap from the city will get bitten, and he generally drops hard, too.

"Some of my palmiest days have been spent in northwestern Ohio, and one time I cleared $1,000 out of greenies at a fair at Attica, a little town down here in Seneca county. They put up a good fair there and there are generally big crowds. I was working a dice game there and there was some high betting. Somehow it seems to take people a long time to find out that all these games are "sure things." A fakir never puts up a game that gives anybody a chance but himself, still people are crazy to get something for nothing and so bite at the clever games of the 'skin man.'

"There is one thing about the fakirs, however, that no one can deny is to their credit. That is their generosity and open-handed liberality. An up and down man is always willing to give up his last dollar to a fellow who is in worse luck than himself and he is seldom up to any downright mean tricks. We claim that when a man bucks our wide open game he has no right to complain if he drops his wad, yet they do get hot sometimes.

"There are some rattling good fakirs at this fair, but none of them are making money, so we have decided to have a good time and we call this a church social and a fakirs' reunion.

"I made a neat stake at the Fostoria fair this year, but lost it on the races, and this is a poor week for me. I think I'll stick to this part of the state, though, for a while."

With this Jimmie returned the reporter's watch, which he had swiped during the conversation, and started after a half drunken fellow who was foolishly showing a big roll of bills.

HE WANTED TO DIE.

A Plucky Woman Who Could Not Prevent a Suicide.

New York, Sept. 11.—George Hershberger, 32 years old, suddenly became insane at his home in this city yesterday and attempted to jump from the window of his room, which is three stories from the ground.

His sister-in-law, a small but plucky young woman, caught him by the back of his vest and screamed for help. The madman fought desperately to release the woman's hold, but was held on until he beat her into insensibility.

Hershberger then jumped and received fatal injuries.

WEAVERS' TROUBLES.

Fall River, Mass., Sept. 11.—The Weavers' Progressive union held a meeting last night, at which the proposed reduction in wages was the principal topic of discussion. The sentiment was in favor of running the mills a less number of days per week rather than to submit to a reduction of wages. If the cut in wages is made the weavers will strike. The secretary was instructed to prepare all weavers' unions and the national union for a strike.

BAUMBACH HAS A SNAP.

Appointed Private Secretary to Dr. Schweisse—Pranks of the Latter.

There is an individual who haunts the county infirmary office, who is a crank from cellar to garret. His name is Francis Joseph Schweisse. He is evidently a very learned man, and his present mental aberration is due to overstudy. He prepared himself for the priesthood, gave that up, studied law, and was admitted to the bar. He then abandoned that and took up the study of medicine, which profession he has been actively engaged in for some years. It is not to be wondered at that his reason became unbalanced.

His hallucination is that he is a candidate for governor of Ohio, indorsed on every ticket in the field. He is figuring in national politics as well, and expects to be a successful candidate for the presidency later on. He has engaged Herman Baumbach as his private secretary, and has promised him the secretary of state's office in case of his election as governor. He owns Ohio and appoints all officials, both state and municipal. This morning he went hustling into the infirmary office and ordered Mr. Baumbach, his secretary, to draw up a mortgage on Ohio for $50,000, at once; that he must have the funds to conduct his campaign. Herman told him he would attend to the matter as soon as he had a little time. Apparently satisfied that the money would be forthcoming without delay, Schweisse rushed out.

The next heard of him, he had been to see John F. Kumler, J. K. Hamilton, J. D. Ford and J. H. Southard, offering them a large sum of money to make a speech at the fair grounds to-day, booming him for governor.

The other day he presented a check at the Ketcham National bank for $10,000, without signature or date. He is the same individual who rushed into a telegraph office in the city the other day and wanted to send a dispatch to President Harrison, telling him to come out here at once, as there was "hell to pay."

Though he be perfectly harmless he should be at the asylum, and not running at large, frightening women and children.

THE GREAT CEREAL CROP.

Report of the Department of Agriculture.

State Averages High — Records for Yield Broken in Many Parts of the Country.

Washington, Sept. 11.—The statistician of the department of agriculture reports the September general average of cereal crops as follows:

Corn, 91.1; wheat, 96.8; rye, 95.1; oats, 90.7; barley, 94.3; buckwheat, 96.6. A small advance is noted in all, buckwheat alone excepted. The average for potatoes is 94.8. For tobacco, 87.4.

Condition of corn is 21 points higher than in September of last year, and has been exceeded only three times in the past ten years. State averages are generally higher; the lowest are those of Michigan and Wisconsin; Minnesota and North Dakota coming next, while South Dakota, Nebraska and Kansas make figures under the general average.

In the eastern and middle states the crop is well grown, is generally earing well, but a little late, and recent cool nights prevent rapid advancement, yet frost has as yet done no damage. The crop is in fine condition in the southern states. It is not so much injured by heavy rains as cotton. In some bottom lands water has caused material injury, while on uplands the crop is remarkably good. It was somewhat late, but is now generally beyond the reach of frost.

A fine yield has been made west of the Mississippi, though in western Texas a little reduced by drought. It is a crop decidedly above medium throughout the south as a whole. Many correspondents refer to it as the best in years. In the Ohio valley corn is heavy in stalk, somewhat late in earing from cool nights, in some places has been blown down by heavy winds, yet is generally very promising.

Local droughts are mentioned at a few points as cause of deterioration, without producing very serious loss. The correspondent in Franklin county, Ohio, claims the heaviest crop in forty years.

In Indiana and Illinois there was more injury from drought in July and early in August, which has been partially repaired by recent rains. If frost holds off ten days nothing but the latest planting can be injured. Absolute immunity from loss would require exemption through September, yet most of the breadth is already safe.

In Michigan there has been considerable injury from frosts of August 22d to 28th, and in some cases still earlier. Some areas have been cut up for fodder in this latitude.

Many Minnesota correspondents promise a good crop "if frost holds off," while in valley lands and the more northern sections it has already done considerable damage. There are also returns of injury from frost in the Dakotas. In Iowa and Nebraska the crop is late and would be injured by frost prior to September 20, and needs the entire month for ripening of late planted areas.

In Missouri heavy rains in June, drought in July, and heavy rain and wind storms recently have been unfavorable to the highest condition. On well cultivated and drained areas corn is very heavy. Condition is variable in Kansas, the western district suffering from drought, while eastern counties have abundant moisture and a heavy crop.

The condition of wheat is very high, considering both winter and spring varieties, in soils, latitudes and elevations so widely differing. The general average has been exceeded slightly twice since 1879, in 1882 and 1884. State averages are quite uniform, but 10 falling below 95 and 3 below 90, the lowest being 83 for South Carolina and 84 for North Carolina.

The figures for the principal wheat growing states are as follows: Ohio, 98; Michigan, 98; Indiana, 100; Illinois, 100; Wisconsin, 90; Minnesota, 100; Iowa, 99; Missouri, 94; Kansas, 89; Nebraska, 98; North Dakota, 94; South Dakota, 99; California, 98; Oregon, 97; Washington, 93. East of the mountains: New York, 99; Pennsylvania, 99; Maryland, 97; Virginia, 95. In the southwest, Texas, 97.

In the middle states wheat was generally well filled, harvested in good condition, yielding well in threshing. In a few counties in Pennsylvania, and in parts of Maryland and Virginia, there has been some injury in the shock.

The Texas crop was unusually fine, harvested in May and June, and is now mostly marketed. In one county a yield of 20 to 23 bushels per acre is reported, and in another 18 bushels. A reporter in Kentucky claims for wheat "one of those exceptionally fine crops that occur only at long intervals;" others make less sanguine statements. With variable returns in Ohio and Michigan the tenor of remark as to quality, quantity and condition is very favorable.

In Indiana and Illinois, Missouri and Kansas, threshing gave yields better than was expected, with some exceptions, "the largest ever harvested" in one instance, "28 bushels per acre," in another, and estimated average weights of 60 to 62 pounds in most favored localities. Some shrivelled grain is reported, and some damage in the shock.

The remarks concerning quantity and quality of spring wheat in Minnesota are extremely favorable, with very slight drawbacks from frost and wet, and nearly as favorable in Iowa, Nebraska and the Dakotas.

Extreme yields of 30 to 40 bushels are reported in all these states. The spring wheat of the Pacific coast has been somewhat injured by hot and blighting weather.

L. C. GIBBS A CANDIDATE.

Ex-County Commissioner L. C. Gibbs, of Springfield, was in the city to-day attending the fair, and incidentally a little politics. He was met by a BEE, to whom was disclosed the fact that he would be a candidate for county commissioner at the convention on the 19th inst.

"Yes, I have concluded to make the race," said Mr. Gibbs, "and if I read the signs aright I will defeat Mr. Englehardt. At all events, I want the support of my friends, and the BEE may so state it."

DEMOCRATIC DAY.

Big Time in Columbus When the Governors Meet.

A Grand Street Parade, With Fireworks at Night and a Barbecue to Close the Day.

Columbus, Sept. 11.—Information received at the headquarters of the democratic state executive committee is to the effect that the preparations are already being made in different parts of the state to send large delegations to Columbus on governor's day, October 6.

The estimates from Butler county place the number that will attend at 5,000, while Cincinnati will probably send a delegation equally as large, and Cleveland is expected to send as many more.

Already there is assurance that the affair will eclipse any former political meeting held in the state.

Arrangements will be made for a grand street parade with fireworks at night and probably an old-fashioned barbecue on the Kentucky plan. The details are not yet perfected for the day, but they are being put in shape.

T. E. Jones of Alabama, James P. Eagle of Arkansas, R. J. Reynolds of Delaware, Francis P. Fleming of Florida, Brown of Kentucky, Francis T. Nichols of Louisiana, E. E. Jackson of Maryland, William E. Russell of Massachusetts, E. B. Winans of Michigan, John M. Stone of Mississippi, David B. Francis of Missouri, L. Abbett of New Jersey, David G. Fowle of North Carolina, R. E. Pattison of Pennsylvania, J. P. Buchanan of Tennessee, J. S. Hogg of Texas, W. McKinney of Virginia, E. Wilson of West Virginia, J. W. Peck of Wisconsin, W. J. Northern of Georgia, Horace Boise of Iowa, J. K. Toole of Montana, J. E. Boyd of Nebraska, S. Pennoyer of Oregon, B. R. Tillman of South Carolina, David B. Hill of New York, James E. Campbell of Ohio.

THE ITATA.

Western Officers to be Beaten Out of Their Prize Money.

San Francisco, Sept. 11.—The attorney for the Chilian congressional party in this city, Mr. Charles Page, has received a dispatch from the United States attorney general asking if he would sign a stipulation agreeing to the postponement of the hearing of the Itata case. Mr. Page replied that he would if the government would agree to release the Itata on bonds.

The marshal of Southern California and his deputies will be the persons who will feel most keenly the release of the Itata. If the condemnation proceedings against the vessel had been successful a moiety of the sum received on the sale of the ship and cargo, which would have been nearly $100,000, would have been paid over to them.

SAM'L OF POSEN IN JAIL.

M. B. Curtis Arrested for Murdering a Policeman.

The Actor Was Drunk and Was Resisting Arrest When the Deed Occurred.

San Francisco, Sept. 11.—Late last night the policemen in the southern police station were startled by a pistol shot just outside the door.

Running out they found Officer Grant lying dead on the pavement with a bullet wound in his head. A man was seen running away and on being pursued and caught was found to have Grant's handcuffs on his wrists. On the pavement near the dead policeman was found a discharged pistol.

The man gave his name as Maurice Curtis and denied shooting Grant. Curtis is the M. B. Curtis, well known in theatrical circles as "Samuel of Posen." He had come to this city from his home in Berkeley and had been drinking all the evening with some friends.

Why he was arrested is not known but it is supposed he had been creating a disturbance.

Two men saw Curtis and the officer have a struggle in front of the police station and then saw the flash of a pistol. Curtis was seen at the police station but would not talk. He was under the influence of liquor.

PRESIDENT OF HONDURAS.

New York, Sept. 11.—The Herald's dispatch from Tegucigalpa, Honduras, are to the effect that Ponciano Leibah has been chosen president of that republic by a majority of over 17,000. The result gives general satisfaction. The election was held in a most orderly manner, no disturbance having been reported from any section of the country.

CHEATING IN HORSE BLANKETS

Nearly every pattern of 5/A Horse Blanket is imitated in color and style. In most cases the imitation looks just as good as the genuine, but it hasn't the warp threads, and so lacks strength, and while it sells for only a little less than the genuine it isn't worth one-half as much. The fact that 5/A Horse Blankets are copied is strong evidence that they are THE STANDARD, and every buyer should see that the 5/A trade mark is sewed on the inside of the Blanket.

KISSING THE ROD.

Oh, heart of mine, we shouldn't
Worry so!
What we've missed of calm we couldn't
Have, you know!
What we've met of stormy pain,
And of sorrow's driving rain,
We can better meet again
If it blow.

We have erred in that dark hour
We have known
When our fates fell with the shower,
All alone—
Were not shine and shadow bent
As the gracious Master meant?
Let us temper our content
With His own.

For, we know, not every morrow
Can be sad;
So, forgetting all the sorrow
We have had,
Let us fold away our fears
And put by our foolish tears
And through all the coming years
Just be glad.

—James Whitcomb Riley.

The record for speed by a railroad train was broken a few days ago, it is said, on the Bound Brook railroad, between Neshaminy Falls and Langhorne, Penn. Engine No. 206, drawing two ordinary coaches and a heavy private car of one of the officers, succeeded in running a mile in 39 4-5 seconds, five miles in 3 minutes 26 3-5 seconds, and 10 miles in 7 minutes 12 seconds.

It is said that between the island of Madagascar and the coast of India there are 16,000 islands, only 400 of which are inhabited. In fact, on some of these islands he need not work at all, as nature provides the food, and no clothes are required.

About thirty-four years ago a vessel called the Sally, while coming up the Solway, was wrecked opposite Carsethora. Curiously enough, within the last few days the mast of the vessel has appeared above the sand, and now there is a considerable portion of the hull in sight. The reason assigned for this is that the channel has shifted, as it frequently does in the Solway, and has caused the vessel to silt up through the sand. It will, of course, be a great danger to shipping in the district.

A strange discovery has been made in France at the Chateau Champlain. A grower found that his vineyard was encumbered by an old decayed wall and obtained permission to have it pulled down. Some remnants of clothes reduced to dust were found on the ground where the skeletons lay, as well as some rusty iron fragments.

By order of the German emperor the Prussian minister of the interior has forbidden parents to baptize their children with political names of a certain character or color. Young Germans may be christened with names from the Bible, of princes, or of "loyal" statesmen, generals and patriots. The news comes from Berlin that Dr. Engels has discovered in Africa a remedy for blood poisoning caused by the bites of snakes and rattl dogs. This remedy is the "wild-growing black noble palm." It is stated that 500 negroes bitten by poisonous snakes were treated with the extract of the palm and 487 were cured in five days. Of 65 farmers and negroes bitten by rabid dogs all but two were saved. The extract is injected under the skin and causes a moderate fever. On the third day the fever and inflammation disappear, and on the fifth or seventh day the patient is cured.

NOW FOR A LAKE RACE.

The Kirby Challenged by the City of Toledo.

Manager Cone and the Owners of the Boat Tired of Bluster—Money Talks—The Proposition.

The controversy between the owners of the steamer City of Toledo, and the Frank E. Kirby, as to which is the faster boat, is likely to result in a test of the speed of the two boats in a few days.

The City of Toledo people have not made any effort to secure a race with the Kirby, but several times the latter has endeavored to make a race, within the past month.

Regarding the little spurt which the vessels recently had between Put-in Bay and Catawba island, the owner of the Kirby has the following in the Sandusky Register:

Detroit, Sept. 8, 1891.

On the way from Detroit to Put-in-Bay last Sunday the steamer Frank E. Kirby was running at her usual rate of speed, carrying from 40 to 45 pounds of steam, made the landing at Put-in-Bay and then left for Catawba island for fruit. One and one-half minutes after the Kirby was under way the City of Toledo was under way chasing her up with the evident intention of doing what she had given out that she would do—beat the Kirby. The Kirby continued to carry the same amount of steam, and no more than she had been carrying on the way down. Notwithstanding the fact that the Toledo did not come up with the Kirby or gain on her but very slightly, if any, the City of Toledo people went back to Put-in-Bay and made the untruthful statement that the Toledo beat the Kirby several minutes between Put-in-Bay and Catawba island.

The steamer Frank E. Kirby has and can make nearly three miles an hour better time than she was making at that time. If the managers of the City of Toledo think their boat is faster than the Kirby and wish a test of speed they can be accommodated, but that test of speed will not be made, so far as the Kirby is concerned, with passengers on board. And I have issued positive orders to the captain and engineer of the Kirby to pay no attention whatever to the movements of the steamer City of Toledo when passengers are on board the boat.

W. O. ASHLEY,
Managing Owner Steamer Frank E. Kirby.

As regards this statement Manager Calvin Cone of the City of Toledo said to a BEE man last night:

"I am surprised that Ashley should make such a statement, which is not strictly in the line of the facts as they really were. The fact is that we gained in the race referred to nearly three minutes on the Kirby and would have passed her had the distance been far enough. The assertion that the Kirby was not doing all she possibly could do to get away from the City, is very laughable. This fact will convince people that the Kirby was trying to get away from us; ordinarily the Kirby's engines turn thirty revolutions to the minute, but in the spurt referred to the wheel was turning 33½ revolutions to the minute and carrying all the steam her boilers could carry. Smoke poured out of her stack in such a manner as to demonstrate that her engineers were constantly coaling. Residents of Put-in-bay who took observations of the race from the top of the observatory, assert that we gained three minutes on the Kirby.

"Now to stop all this controversy we have a proposition to make. We think the City of Toledo can beat the Kirby at any place on the lakes, and that she is a faster boat than the Kirby. I will put up $100 or more if necessary that we can beat the Kirby from Put-in-Bay to West Sister island and return, the vessels to go on either side of the island and turn. We will make this test any day that the Kirby people see fit to name. Now if they want to test the boats they have a chance.

"We have never claimed that the City of Toledo could beat the Kirby for money, and have not boasted that she could beat her at all, but now that they are endeavoring to drive us, they have the opportunity to get our money and settle the question of speed between the boats."

Capt. McNelly, of the City of Toledo, also said to a BEE.

"The Kirby people say they have never raced with the City. Let us see. One day they caught me coming out with 800 people aboard, and as I could not trim the boat for several minutes they gained on me. The next day they carried a broom as an evidence of their victory.

We will race the Kirby anywhere for any amount from Put-in Bay to Cleveland or on any other course in Lake Erie, and we are confident that we can best her. This talk has made us tired and we are now ready for business."

The Kirby people after all their blowing, cannot do otherwise than accept the proposition. A back down would be an admission of the inferiority of their boat.

DR. BIGELOW'S OPENING.

A Pleasant Evening Spent Under the Doctor's Wing.

It was the pleasure of many of Dr. Bigelow's patrons and friends to attend a musicale and reception given by him last evening at his spacious parlors in the Grange block on Summit street, and this, like everything else undertaken by the doctor, was a grand success. The program was as follows and was well rendered and very enjoyable:

Mr Ed Witzel.

At the close of of the last number the doctor suggested a visit through his newly occupied and elegantly furnished dental parlors, which met with the approval of the entire company who, after a tour of inspection, headed by the doctor and his excellent wife, pronounced them the best arranged and most complete dental rooms in the state, where it would be a pleasure to have a tooth drawn if only for the privilege of enjoying the luxury and comfort of his original method of extracting teeth without pain.

After this trip through the dental world, the guests were invited by the doctor to retire to the Sitterly, where the following menu was served, which was followed by a rising vote of thanks tendered to the host for the evening's entertainment:

MENU.

AT THE THEATERS.

Little Tycoon and Jarbeau Coming—A Word About Them.

This successful comic-opera, The Little Tycoon, will be presented in this city next Wednesday evening at Wheeler's. All the supurb scenery, costumes, properties, electric effects, together with an orchestra of ten picked musicians, and a chorus of 30 voices. An exact reproduction of the opera will be given as originally produced during its phenomenal run in Palladelphia.

R. E. Graham, who is the original General Knickerbocker, is one of the most popular young comedians in this country, and the wonderful success he has made is entirely due to his own efforts.

Jarbeau Next Week.

Miss Vernona Jarbeau, a favorite of the opera-comique school, will bring her own company to the People's theater on Monday night next, and present her famous musical farce-comedy, Starlight, described in the play-bills very aptly as a dramatic piece of bric-a-brac. Starlight was written for Miss Jarbeau's debut as a star. The plot describes a musical "crank" in search of a prima donna. He discovers a shepherdess with a voice, brings the rustic singer to America and arranged for her appearance at a fashionable reception. The result is, of course, a mesley entertainment, song succeeding dance, and each character makes at least four changes of costumes in each act. One charm of Starlight is the bevy of pretty girls who are engaged in it. Miss Jarbeau herself being the leader. Starlight has been entirely re-written, with new songs, music, and dances.

Notes.

Miss Carrie Oesterman will leave Sunday to join the Hands Across the Sea company.

The County Fair company closes their engagement at Wheeler's to-morrow with a matinee and night performance.

The Ivy Leaf gives two performances to-morrow, Matinee and night. They leave Sunday morning for Buffalo.

AT THE WORKHOUSE.

Meeting of the Board Yesterday Afternoon.

Number of Paroles Granted—Proposition for Natural Gas—Dr. Hipp Has a Plan.

All the members of the workhouse board except Mr. Wendt were present at the meeting yesterday afternoon.

After the board was called to order the first thing taken up was the applications for paroles, which were granted as follows:

John Clark, on the payment of $8.
Harry McDonald, to pay $25, $5 down and balance in four weekly payments.
Frank Heitz, to pay $27 at $3 a week.
Laura Deno, on payment of $25.
Rudolph Biss gained his liberty for $12.60.
Frank Schaeffer, on account of sickness, was sent to Bucyrus.
Wm. Johnson, to leave city.
John Miller, $22.50, $12.50 down and $5 a week.
John Cavanaugh, $20, $10 down and balance in two weeks.

The pay roll, and the schedule of bills, amounting to $899.60, were approved and ordered paid.

The daily report for the month of August showed 96 9-10 males and 16 1-10 females cared for, a daily average of 113 inmates. One death was also reported, that of James McCoy.

The treasurer's report showed a cash balance of funds amounting to $7,519 57.

The board approved contracts with Bettsville and Mt. Blanchard to care for their prisoners at the rate of 40 cents per day with all other necessary costs.

The Sandusky county commissioners asked that Winfield Ellisen be discharged, which request was granted, Ellison to leave the city at once.

The city gas trustees presented a communication offering to supply the works with gas for the year on the same basis as before, $2,500, the board to advance that amount to do the necessary piping. Referred to committee.

Some slight changes were made in the guard's salaries.

William Davis, who was out on parole and had gone to Canada, was represented before the board by his wife, who asked that he be allowed to return to the city without being placed under arrest, as she had work for him.

A motion was passed allowing Davis to return on the conditions that his wife make a weekly report of his conduct. If he does not behave himself he is to be arrested and made to serve out his full time.

Dr. Hipp asked permission to hold clinical lectures for a number of medical students, using the sick inmates as his subjects.

Secretary Brown stated that it could be done without any annoyance or hinderance to the works.

Dr. Hipp stated that he thought he could secure about forty or fifty students who would be willing to pay $2 each for the course of lectures.

The matter was referred to a committee for further investigation, after which the board adjourned.

THE GAS TRUSTEES

Hold a Brief Session and Transact but Little Business.

Dr. Jones and Mr. Brown were both absent from the meeting of the board of natural gas trustees last evening, but their presence was hardly a necessity, as there was very little business to be transacted.

Parks, Foster & Co., in reply to the request of the board relative to pushing the contract, wrote that the paving of Washington street had obstructed the laying of pipe. The service lines cannot be laid until certain work on the street is completed. The contractors promise to push the work as fast as possible.

The committee on claims reported a schedule of claims amounting to $881, which was ordered paid.

Manager Heston in his report submitted a petition from the Western Electric Light company for gas. It was referred to the committee on city plant.

The Lafayette construction wrote promising to have its contract completed in the specified time.

A communication of Parks, Foster & Co., relative to tunnelling under streets, was referred to the city solicitor.

The Maumee rolling mills reported that gas amounting to $1,335 had been consumed by that institution since August 8. The Toledo Electric company consumed gas amounting to $892. Checks for the amounts were enclosed.

KNIGHTS OF ST. JOHN.

Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 11.—The chapter general of the Knights of St. John and Malta to-day elected George Rollins, of Philadelphia, grand commander; C. A. Cummings, of Bradford, Pa., grand herald; J. D. Hoffman, of Philadelphia, grand musical director. The body is considering changes in the constitution and by-laws.

GREVY'S FUNERAL.

Paris, Sept. 11.—After an imposing state funeral, at which President Carnot, M. De Freycinet, and the other members of the ministry, together with a large number of senators and deputies will be present, the remains of ex-President Grevy will be finally interred.

BROKERS FAIL.

London, Sept. 11.—Alexander & Son, corn brokers of Threadneedle street, have failed. Their liabilities amount £1,874,908, and their assets to £27,370. The failure is attributed by the member of the firm to losses incurred in grain speculation since May last.

FIVE PERSONS KILLED.

Glasgow, Sept. 11.—An express train today dashed into the midst of a gang of trackmen who were at work on the line near this city. Five of the laborers were killed.

A NEW COMMANDER.

Washington, Sept. 11.—Lieut. A. B. Wycoff has been ordered to assume command of the Puget Sound naval station.

Sallow and leaden-hued complexions soon give place to the loveliest pink and-white, when the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla is persisted in, and cosmetics entirely abandoned. Nothing can counterfeit the rosy glow of perfect health, which blesses those who use this medicine.

PERFECTING THE MACHINE.

Wanamaker's Office Doing Good Work.

The Postoffices of the Country Falling in Line to Boom Harrison for Renomination.

Washington, Sept. 11.—The postmaster-general has already received nearly three hundred replies to his letter of request to county seat postmasters to visit the postoffices in their counties, and after interchanging ideas with the postmasters, make their reports upon the condition of the service and their suggestions for its improvement, to the department.

In four-fifths of these replies the postmasters gladly accepted the work and a few have even sent in their reports.

About one-fifth undertook the plan with some modifications which were perfectly acceptable to the department, and only a very few state that they cannot undertake the work, having no assistant in their offices.

The postmasters who have already undertaken the work speak of the public criticism that the plan has attracted both in newspapers and among citizens generally.

The heartiness of the response is noticeable from the states of North Dakota, South Carolina, Alabama and Indiana, though the response has been hearty from every state yet heard from.

It is noticed in many of the letters that the county seat postmasters are already on familiar terms with the other postmasters, having had much correspondence with them, and are therefore the more eager to undertake these travels amongst them, and hence a better acquaintanceship. A feature of the replies very gratifying to the postmaster-general is that democratic postmasters seem quite as much in sympathy with the inquiry as any others.

THE WORLD OF TOILERS.

Aftermath From the Labor Day Celebrations.

Should Election Day be a Holiday.

What Local Labor Organizations are Doing—Notes From the Industrial World at Home and Abroad.

The BEE dispatches of last Tuesday showed how general was the observance of Labor day this year. In general terms it may be said there was a celebration in almost every town and city in the United States where labor is organized, and where is it not? Wherever a celebration was entered upon, it was a success, weather permitting. Perhaps the most disappointed men in the country on that day were the 15,000 workingmen of Boston and vicinity who had made all preparations for a grand parade and holiday, and who woke on Labor day morning to find the rain pouring down, and who gathered at their respective halls and waited all day in vain for a let-up on the part of the weeping clouds. This was the first rain in six years in Boston on the first Monday in September. The Boston building trades will parade and picnic to-morrow, but of course it will not be quite the same.

It may be interesting to call the roll the states in which the day is a legal holiday, as it should be throughout the land. These are: Ohio, New York, Maine, New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Kansas, Nebraska, Colorado, Montana, Oregon Washington, California, Missouri, West Virginia, Alabama and Tennessee—27 out of the 44.

In some of the eastern cities the fall school term no longer opens on the first Monday in September, but the next day a very graceful concession to the wage-worker's holiday. It might be commendable if this rule was adopted in all large cities, inasmuch as the majority of the children in the public schools have fathers or brothers in the ranks of the marchers, and are members of families taking part in the celebration.

A few days ago a gentleman visited a large foundry in Chicago, and noticed a number of Polish girls lifting chunks of rosin from one barrel to another. "What is the object of that?" he asked the superintendent; "it seems to me you might transfer that rosin much more quickly." "Oh, that's all right," he answered. "We have them do this work for a while to harden their hands before they undertake to handle rough and heavy iron castings. The girls themselves never suspect that the work they are doing is not needed."

The above clipping is from the New York Tribune, and is evidence that the European system of employing cheap female labor in work for which woman is physically unfitted is gaining ground in this country. Labor organizations have long seen that the question of demand and supply of labor in the market could only be settled on a basis of paying wages for the employed by eliminating the factor of "cheap hands." It is for this reason they strive to organize wage workers so that a uniform scale of wages may be demanded successfully; for this reason they admit all women who must work outside of home to the labor organizations of the trades the women follow; and this is one of the reasons, though not the only one, for opposing child labor. But what can be done to keep up wages, if girls are put to such work as this of handling heavy castings? The work is so evidently unfitted for them that the first thing to be done is to arouse general public sentiment against their being so employed.

General Master Workman Powderly has a long and interesting article in the last number of the Knights official journal on the inception and growth of the labor holiday. He gives the date at which it was made a legal holiday in different states, and who introduced the measure. Mr. Powderly makes an earnest appeal that the next move on the part of organized labor shall be to secure the passage of a law in all the states making election day a legal holiday. He says:

That day of all others should be a day on which no citizen should work. To-day every mine and mill in the state of Pennsylvania may be idle and for every other day from now until election day these works may run on half-time, but the 3d of November will see every mill, every mine and workshop running from the time the polls open until they close again. This is the practice of the corporations of this state, and it will continue to be until election day becomes a legal holiday. Other states report the same condition of affairs. They, too, must throw off the yoke that makes a workman a serf on that day of all days when he should give the most careful attention to affairs that directly concern him.

The Labor Record, Bro. D. L. Mynihen's Weekly, is prospering famously. The Labor day copy of this weekly was immense.

The Building Trades Council of Chicago issues annually for Labor day distribution, "The National Labor Day Gazette and Review." The number for 1891 is received at the BEE office, and is a most creditable little magazine. It is 64 pages in size, one-half of it given to advertising, and the remainder to the program of the Chicago celebration, an essay by Secretary P. J. McGuire, of the Federation on "Building Trades Leagues;" a history of the Chicago Building Trades Council, and of other labor organizations of the city; and two papers on "The State and its Functions," one by Mr. C. S. Darrow, who contends for an extension of the functions of the state as the solution of the labor question, the other by Mr. Geo. A. Schilling, who holds the state is incapable and irresponsible for such a task. Labor organizations in Toledo can obtain copies of this magazine by addressing the secretary of the council, Robert Watson.

At the C. L. U.

The session of the Central Labor union last night received new delegates: Patrick Healy, from the flint glass works; Charles Jarchuv, from the machine wood workers, and Messrs. Marsh and Gunnel from the machinists. Several matters relating to alleged violations of union regulations, by individuals and firms, were discussed but no definite action taken on any of them.

Labor Day Profits.

The Labor day arrangement committee of the Central Labor union were not ready to submit a report last evening on the expenses and profits of the day. It is understood that the outlay was very heavy and that the receipts will not more than balance the expenditures, including the expenses of the committeemen.

The knights netted about fifty dollars profit from their Labor day excursion to Put-in Bay. This will be used to defray expenses of hall hire for public meetings while the general assembly is in the city.

The Joaners.

The sisters of Joan of Arc assembly will open their series of fall and winter entertainments early in October. The first, the nature of which has not been determined, will be free and an invitational affair. At their meeting Wednesday evening a committee was appointed to wait on L. A. 1942 next Monday evening.

The Blacksmith's union will meet at Reusch's hall on Monroe street this evening, and will adopt by-law and constitution.

Following is the report of the Free Employment office for the week ending September 10:

	Males	Females
Positions secured	60	25
Situations wanted	76	34
Help wanted	100	46

It is perhaps due to fair week that the supply of female help has diminished.

The trouble between the Robinson Electric company and its men over the discharge of Conductor Hancock was amicably settled yesterday. Mr. Hancock is working to-day.

The Central Labor union at its meeting last evening discussed several important matters, but took definite action on none. The trouble between Dr. Beckwith and the Painter's union was referred. Several new delegates were admitted.

Chicago Typos in Line.

The third division was the strongest and most attractive of the parade. H. S. Hauck, secretary of the Cigarmakers' union, was the marshal, and Typographical union No. 16 had the place of honor. The Aldine band led the way and several carriages with the officers of the union followed. In the first carriage was the banner won last year by the union. The Times chapel was in front, with the News and Tribune next in order. The Tribune men presented a handsome appearance in silk hats, neat gray fall overcoats and dark trousers. The Inter Ocean, Globe, Journal, Drover's Journal and America were in line, and then came the chapels of the different printing houses. The Herald and The Evening Post chapels followed. At the head of the Herald, on a chestnut horse, rode a gorgeously attired herald in crimson doublet and hose, carrying a trumpet with a white silk gaberdier. The members of the chapel walked five abreast, about one hundred and thirty in number, in white dusters and black Derby hats. Each man carried a red, white or blue umbrella, the blue ones having stars, and formed in the march the American flag. All wore sunflowers. Wharton's drum corps bent a merry fanfare in front of them. The Evening Post chapel disdained walking and appeared in high wheel dog carts with tandem teams. Colored grooms were in attendance.

Typographical Union No. 9 followed No. 16, the Arbeiter Zeitung chapel turning out strong. At Halsted it was a fauitlessly attired painter riding a sleek horse, while a motto carried beside him announced that it was a Staats Zeitung printer before the strike. Immediately behind was a seedy looking individual mounted on a donkey, and he represented a Staats Zeitung printer during the strike.—Herald.

A Palace for Immigrants.

Castle Garden, having been cleaned, fumigated and otherwise made spruce within, is to be thrown open during the present week for a series of people's concerts. A mile away in the harbor, just off the Jersey coast, a spacious new building is going up under the auspices of Uncle Sam and at a cost of $200,000. Four hundred feet in length, 150 feet wide, two stories high and planked by three-story towers, the new reception structure at Ellis Island looks like a summer resort hotel, and is almost as luxurious. There is room enough on the front floor to handle the baggage of 12,000 immigrants in a day, and there will be not only abundant room for the immigrants themselves, but ample space for lunch counters, exchange desks, ticket offices, etc. If the American traveler in Europe finds his Custom house and quarantine accommodations abroad one-half as good as those which New York provides for the steerage pauper he may well be content. —K. of L. Journal.

Advertise Your Organization.

No one would expect a man to succeed in a commercial or manufacturing business if he did not let the world know the kind and quality of the products he had to supply it with, and the more persistently he called the people's attention to his business the surer he is of success. He advertises his business, he sets the people thinking his way.

What is known as the labor movement probably has more real benefit in it for the masses of the people than all other questions combined; still it seems to be handicapped as against many others. This has come through the negligence of the advertising done in its favor; those who have become interested in furthering its work have failed to see the need of being constantly before the people with arguments to interest them and attract them to consider the question it has for all to think of, or have lacked the means to do it with. Few even of the active workers in labor organizations are aiding in this way in near the proportion to their resources that similar workers in secular and political organizations do.

The result is the movement is retarded for lack of advertising. Tens of thousands of men don't know yet what the objects of labor organizations are, and thousands of those in them do not realize the need of having sufficient interest in them to let their next door neighbor know of their aims and objects.—U. P. Employes' Magazine.

The Wretched Poor Abroad.

A report from Vienna states that a Russian ecclesiastic, now in that city, who has just returned from a journey through the distressed districts of the Russian province of Kszan, gives a heartrending account of incidents of his journey. At Narody there were people who had not touched bread for a long time, and were so weak that some of them lacked strength to eat food when offered them. In some villages people were to be seen in grimose, famished, some in the last stages of apathy, while others were raving for bread. The traveler was told that the only food of the people for a fortnight had consisted of lime leaves pounded into a pulp. Out of the 150 families which had inhabited the village 47 had died of hunger. In other districts the population had decimated by starvation.

Here are more figures proving that the laboring people of Germany are giving up eating meat because they can no longer afford it: At the City of Mayence 10,000 cattle were slaughtered in 1888, and 21,325 sheep and 33,318 hogs; while in 1890, although the population had increased within the following two years, the number of animals slaughtered was 9,606 cattle, 18,882 sheep and 28,191 hogs.

Industrial Notes.

At Carnegies' Thirty-third street mill, Pittsburg, 20 furnaces have resumed the use of coal for fuel.

The Denver Hodcarriers' union has 700 members, and a physician is in their employ to attend their families.

Three hundred capitalists of San Francisco have formed an organization for the purpose of opposing organized labor.

The Marble Cutters' National association will hold its annual convention in Pittsburg, during the second week of October.

A strike of window glass workers which will throw fully 10,000 people out of work, was officially declared in Pittsburg, September 1.

The Knights of Labor of Nebraska have established a paper at Omaha. It is named the Labor Wave, and is a model of typographical neatness.

Edison is quoted as saying that ultimately one's house will be lighted and heated at a cost which will not exceed 60 cents per annum.

Fines and deductions for thread, needles, etc., recently reduced the wages of an embroidery girl in Munich, Germany, to $1.11 for 15 workdays at 12 hours per day!

The Missouri, Kansas & Texas Railway company at Sedalia, Mo., has just adopted a schedule of wages which is described as being "one of the most satisfactory adjustments of wages ever issued by a railroad company."

The report of Secretary Parker, of the United Mine Workers, has been issued. It shows that during the 15 weeks' coke strike the sum of $13,084.97 had been received and expended. This means that $1 per head for that time had been paid out.

Southern papers say that a large number of Italian laborers are now employed on the sugar plantations of Louisiana. So many colored laborers have been taken away from the plantations for levee building, steamboating and other work, that field help is scarce.

The shops of the New York Central & Hudson River railroad, West Albany, New York, which were destroyed by fire last May, are nearly completed now. The roof is of iron. A large amount of new machinery and tools is to be bought for the renewed car shops.

Elaborating the Chicago idea, it is now proposed to erect in New York city a building 550 feet high, the tallest house in the world. It will also be the largest business building in the world. It will be 20 stories high to the tower, which will rise above the roof six stories more.

An announcement of very great importance to the whole Pacific coast has recently been made of the discovery of anthracite coal in Sonora, Mexico. In past days the cost of fuel in that section has been one of the great drawbacks to industrial developments, but if anthracite coal exists in Sonora as reported, it will make it possible to have anthracite coal at San Francisco at the price which has been heretofore paid for bituminous.

Labor Commissioner Heath, of Michigan, finds the average wages of Scotchmen in that state to be $575 per year; Englishmen, $565; Irishmen, $515; Canadians, $500; Dutchmen, $465; Americans, $461; Germans, $440. Either the Americans', Germans' and Dutchmen's labor is not worth as much as that of the Scotch, English and Irish, or the latter have more spunk in compelling their bosses to pay them better wages. This is a problem well worth studying by the statisticians and all others concerned. If you want to remedy an evil find out its cause.

For Ohio and Indiana—Slightly warmer; fair, followed by local showers on Saturday; southwesterly winds.

For Michigan, Wisconsin and Illinois—Warmer, fair to-day; cooler, with local showers on Saturday; southerly winds, shifting to westerly.

The Morley Released.

The coal-laden steambarge Morley, which was aground for some time near Turtle Light, was released by the tug Schenck late yesterday. Some of her cargo was lighterered by her consort Ewen.

To Be Sold Under the Hammer.

The barges American Giant and L. W. Drake will be sold by Deputy United States Marshal Wyman at 10 o'clock a. m. on Monday, September 21, at the south door of the postoffice, Cleveland.

The barges were libeled early in the spring by the Clark Dry Dock company for repair bills amounting to about $1,000 apiece. These barges have not been in commission at all this season, but have been lying at anchor inside of the breakwater in charge of a keeper. The boats are supposed to be the property of Wrecker James Reid, but as there was some dispute about the ownership the suit was not contested, and the barges were allowed to go under the hammer, where the proceeds of their sale is not likely to pay much more than the expenses incident to the suit.

The Soo Canal.

Ottawa, Ont., Sept. 11.—In the house of commons Hon. Mr. Bowell, minister of customs, has announced that it had been decided to increase the depth of the new Canadian canal at Sault Ste. Marie to 19 feet, in accordance with the report of the engineer. This would cost some half a million dollars additional and the deepening of the harbors and approaches would increase the cost also about half a million. The total cost of the work would thus be brought up to about four million dollars.

Snags.

The Emma C. Hutchinson left this morning with coal.

The steamer Arundell will run a special excursion to Catawba Sunday.

Captain James Skeldon, formerly of the yacht Stranger, will take command of the tug Green.

The James Fisk, Jr., made a short stop here this morning to unload a consignment of flour.

The schooner Abbie G. Andrews was brought in from the lake by the tug Uncle Sam this morning.

The tug Thompson arrived this morning with the barges Regina and Jennie after grain for Kingston.

The steamer G. G. Hadley is at the Ohio Central dock for coal. The Hadley had several passengers on this down trip.

Business is light about the harbor today and most of the tugs have spent a large portion of the time tied up to the dock.

The steamer Wellington R. Burt, running on the Perrysburg route, will start from the Marine building dock, at the foot of Jefferson street, during the remainder of this season. This will probably be the Burt's dock next season and that steamer intends pushing the up river route for all it is worth next year.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Kirtley, jr., of Defiance, are in Toledo to-day.

Myron J. Jones returned to-day to Wooster University, to pursue his studies.

Miss Della Baker, of Henry county, will attend the convent on Cherry street this winter.

Hon. T. P. Brown and family have just arrived from the Atlantic coast, where they spent they summer.

Mrs. James Aylward and Miss Mary McGrath left this morning for Cleveland to visit relatives and friends.

Detective McLaughlin leaves to-night for the East, on business for the Pennsylvania Railroad Company.

Miss Helen Becker left last evening for New York, where she will meet Mrs. F. L. Gregory, and both will return the 16th.

Mrs. M. O. Waggoner has returned from a trip of pleasure and visiting her friends in New York for the past three weeks.

Miss Myrtle Shook of Detroit and Miss Lulu Crandall of Wood county is spending a few days with Mrs. George Light of Indiana avenue.

Miss Marguerite Rice, who has been visiting Miss Kittie Brown, of 369 Nebraska avenue, has returned to Chicago, well pleased with Toledo.

Mrs. W. S. Thurstin and daughters, Alice and Ethel, of Toledo, have been visiting friends and relatives here the past week.—Bowling Green Tribune.

Mr. S. C. Dyer, who left Toledo a year or so ago, and has since that time been in the commission business at Norfolk, Va., is in the city and will likely remain here. He prefers Toledo to the south.

Miss Ella Conlisk, who has been spending the summer at Dallas, Fort Worth and Galveston, Texas, has returned. Miss Conlisk is the principal of the Hoag street school, which it is expected will be opened next Monday.

Judge Millard is now a full-fledged grandpa. A handsome new daughter has been born to his son Irving. The grandfather and grandmother, and in fact the entire family, is bearing up first-rate under the circumstances.

Mr. M. M. Eppstein's numerous friends will be glad to learn that, after being confined to his bed for seven weeks, he was able to get on his feet yesterday, and spend a short time in his parlor. Without a setback, Mr. Eppstein will be at business again next week.

Mr. John Fagan and family, former residents of Toledo, now living at Fort Worth, Texas, are enjoying their new home very much. Mr. Fagan and son George, are both in railroad business, the former with the T. & P. railroad, the latter with C. & D. railroad.

SOME SPICY CURRENT TOPICS

Of Local and Neighborhood Interest.

Notes and Comments on Incidents Occurring Daily—Prepared for Readers Who are Hustled for Time.

CIRCUIT JUDGES TO MEET.

The Circuit Judges of the state will hold their annual meeting in Columbus next Tuesday. The next day, circuit court will convene in this city.

IMPROVING, BUT UNCONSCIOUS.

Mr. Eclass' condition was slightly improved to-day. He passed a very quiet night, but is still unconscious. Dr. Bailey has greater hopes for his recovery now than he has had since he came.

ANOTHER FISH CHAMPION.

Tuesday Mr. J. A. Cahoon caught a 9 1-2 pound pickerel near Billy Warner's in Ten Mile creek. Now, if Genickel or any other of the local disciples of Isaac Walton can beat this, they are at liberty to do so.

ARMY OF THE CUMBERLAND.

On next Wednesday and Thursday, the Army of the Cumberland will hold its Twenty-second annual reunion at Columbus. There are about 40 members of the organization in Toledo, and it is expected that most of them will attend.

PRIZE FIGHTERS IN HOC.

At 11:30 last night Detectives Manley and Carew and Patrolman Mutchler arrested J. F. Moore, of Canton, Ill., and Harry Kerwin, of Philadelphia, for engaging in a prize fight at the old club house on Lagrange street. The two pugilists are still locked up at the police station, and will have a hearing to-morrow.

LUCAS COUNTY'S LIVE STOCK.

According to a statement just sent out by Auditor Poe, Lucas county is credited with the following live stock:

	1890.	1891.
Number of horses	8,521	9,218
Number of cattle	10,347	8,841
Number of mules	174	176
Number of sheep	6,084	5,689
Number of hogs	10,370	7,654

VERDICTS ON CHANGE OF GRADE.

The jury in the case of the city against Louis Eppstein et al, for the change of grade of Union street, returned a verdict to-day allowing damages as follows: Joseph Keiswetter, $300; Agnes Wagenkneck, $500; Mary Keiswetter, $300; Goldberg & Jacobson, nothing; Congregation Beni Israel, 240.77; Lotta Eppstein, $150; Levenia J. Blivon and C. E. Blivon, $303; Louis Eppstein, $101.45.

PREPARING FOR WORK.

The Seventh Ward Democratic Club met last evening, and a lively interest was taken in the proceedings. A committee, consisting of Judge Harmon, L. E. Richardson and L. W. Wachenheimer, was appointed to draft a constitution, by-laws and rules of order for the government of the club. Discussion ensued as to the best methods of organization, and the matter will be acted upon at the meeting next Thursday night. Several additions were made to the membership roll, and on the whole it may be said the Seventh is alive to the work in hand this fall.

ANOTHER STREET RAILWAY MUSS.

The Consolidated Street Railway company filed a motion in common pleas court to-day to require the Toledo Electric Street Railway company to comply with the order of the court.

The Consolidated charge that the Robisons, contrary to an injunction, have so constructed their crossing of the Consolidated tracks at Ashland avenue and Bancroft street as to prevent the use of the same, and the curves do not join the special crossing and have not been laid and constructed according to the plans signed by Engineer James Winans and G. H. Bodette.

WOODBRIDGE W. C. T. U.

The Woodbridge W. C. T. U. met yesterday afternoon at the First Baptist church with a good attendance, and besides the business transacted the ladies were treated to a talk by Mrs. Mary Woodbridge, of Ravenna, American secretary of the World's W. C. T. U. Her address was very interesting, and she brought out many good points in the work. Mrs. Hitchens, secretary of the society, presented her report, which was accepted. Some time was taken up in discussing ways and means of entertaining the state convention and other business of the society. Mrs. Walter R. Jones was chosen president of the society, but the election of other officers was postponed. At the close of the business session the ladies enjoyed an elegant lunch, and so closed an afternoon of much profit to all concerned.

HESSE DARMSTADTER SOCIETY PICNIC.

Bellevue Park was the scene of a delightful anniversary picnic yesterday by the Hesse Darmstadter society. A large number of the city's best German citizens were in attendance and enjoyed the day to the utmost. The afternoon was spent in the usual picnic style, and an excellent address was delivered by Mr. John Henry, ex-president of the association. "Liberty and Progressive Education" was his topic, and he advanced the best principles of his theme. Several good speeches were made by other members of the society, much to the delight of their hearers. The evening was spent in dancing, and the whole day proved a memorable one in the annals of the society.

A WOOLSON MADE JUDGE.

A high compliment has recently been extended to Mr. John S. Woolson, of Iowa, by President Harrison, in the appointment of Mr. Woolson as United States district judge for the southern district of Iowa, the appointment being for life. The state of Iowa has only two judgships of this nature, and in the appointment of Mr. Woolson, his recognized ability and high legal standing was of course considered. Mr. Woolson is the father of Mr. Paul Woolson, connected with the Woolson Spice company of this city, in the capacity of manager of the advertising department, and a cousin of Mr. A. M. Woolson, the founder of the Lion coffee and its mammoth business and success.

BELLEVUE LADY VISITORS

The Guests of Toledo To-Day—Receiving the Best of Attention.

Corn City Lodge, No. 57, Ladies' Auxiliary to the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, Toledo, are to-day entertaining about 20 members of Eclipse Lodge, No. 25, from Bellevue, O.

The ladies are here for a social call and the Toledo sisters are doing everything possible in the way of entertainment, in return for the courtesies which the Toledo ladies received when they visited Bellevue last spring.

The visitors and an equal number of ladies from the Toledo lodge were entertained at dinner at the Burnett house, and this afternoon the Bellevue ladies are witnessing the installation of officers in the Toledo lodge. Following are the visiting ladies:

Mrs. C. F. Long, president; Mrs. Anna Farley, Mrs. J. M. Rodenberg, Mrs. Geo. E. Burgess, Mrs. V. Welker, Mrs. J. Jones, Mrs. A. Felt, Mrs. H. M. Stettler, Mrs. W. Smalwood, Mrs. D. Stetler, Mrs. A. Gillett, Mrs. John Wolf, Mrs. Mollie Tracy, Mrs. M. J. Maroney, Mrs. C. Shiter, Mrs. C. Wise, Mrs. R. B. Alexander.

A TEST IN MICHIGAN.

Much Importance Attaches to the Election of Ford's Successor.

Detroit, Sept. 11.—A special election will be held in the fifth congressional district, November 3, to choose a successor to the late Hon. Melbourne H. Ford, congressman-elect from this district.

The district is composed of Kent, Ottawa, Allegan and Ionia counties, and is doubtful politically. Ford was a democrat and served one term two years ago.

Belknap, a republican, succeeded him. A strong fight will be made, because the politicians of Michigan consider the election in a way as an indication of how the state will go in 1892. The district fight will begin at once. The Fifth is the second important district in the state.

FOR THE TOILET

There is no more useful or elegant article than Ayer's Hair Vigor—the most popular and economical hair-dressing in the market. It causes the hair to grow abundantly and retain the beauty and texture of youth; prevents baldness, heals troublesome humors of the scalp and keeps it clean, cool, and healthy. Both ladies and gentlemen everywhere prefer Ayer's Hair Vigor to any other dressing for the hair. Mrs. Lydia O. Moody, E. Pittston, Me., writes: "I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for some time, and it has worked wonders for me. I was troubled with dandruff and falling hair, so that I was rapidly becoming bald; but since using the Vigor, my head is perfectly clear of dandruff, the hair has ceased coming out, and I now have a good growth, of the same color as when I was a young woman. I can heartily recommend the use of Ayer's Hair Vigor to any one suffering from dandruff or loss of hair."

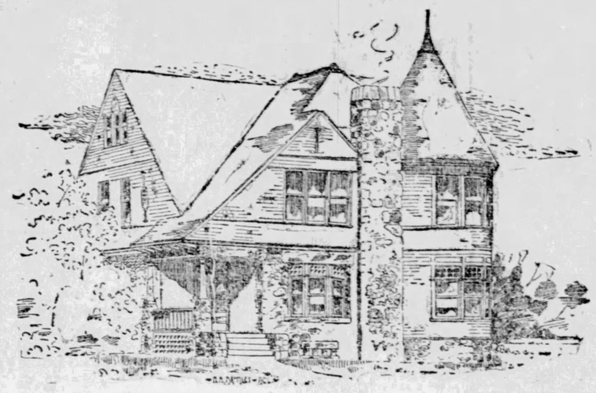
HERE'S ANOTHER STYLE!



Perhaps you'll like something of this style for your home. During the fall and early winter months, before the heavy weather sets in, many beautiful homes will be started in the finest residence city in Ohio—The Future Great. Why, do you ask? Because those who want to be living in their own homes next year, know this fall is the time to commence them. In the spring the carpenters and builders will all be busy, and if is left until then their houses will receive but poor attention or will lag along all summer. It is investments a young man, an old man, a rich man or a poor man can make and an investment in Real Estate in a growing city and a good neighborhood is bound to increase in value and bring the investor good returns. Not only is the principal absolutely safe, but also pays large dividends. This is simply proven by property value's in

ONE OF THE FINEST

ENGLEWOOD

One case for instance. Four years ago a lot was sold at what was considered a fair price. A short time since the lot was re-purchased at an advance of over fifty per cent. and was remarkably cheap. This is but one lot. Hundreds there are which could not be bought for even twice this increase. The situation of Englewood is such that property must necessarily increase more within the coming few years than ever since its platting. With two systems of street car lines having their cars all but short distance from every street; with gas, water and perfect drainage; with wide paved streets, shaded with beautiful trees; with many of the best and most substantial homes in the city, and in the direct line of growth it has all the advantages which go to make up the ideal

THE IOLANTHE'S CRUISE.

Uncertainties of Yachting Never More Manifest.

No End of Minor Calamities Befall the Temporary Mariners, But They Had a Big Time Just the Same.

Having business which required my presence at the Detroit Exposition, it occurred to me that to take the yacht over and use her as a home during my stay would be a scheme fraught with pleasure and economy. Through the kindness of Messrs. Sullivan and Hubbard an arrangement was effected whereby the yacht would be towed to the City of the Straights and sail before the wind on our homeward trip. It fell to our lot to be assigned a position in the rear and under the stern of whaleback No. 105, Capt. Leahey. We were ordered to be ready to sail at six o'clock in the morning, and at that hour Mate Fisher and myself were on deck of the Iolanthe, with tow line neatly coiled and heaving line in hand.

Four bells passed, and eight bells rung up before 105 left the dock and crept down through Cherry street bridge where we were waiting. The heaving line whizzed through the air but failed to reach the mark, and 105 passed on down the river toward the lake. Here was a dilemma. The heaving line was recoiled, and remembering the adage, "That the patient waiter looses nothing," we waited patiently, "Micawber like," for something to turn up. Meantime the sky had become overcast and leaden; the wind rose, and from the eastward came great drops of rain with mist. We put on our oil skins and sou'westers and prepared for whatever might come. Soon a tug passed. We hailed her and were taken in tow; giving orders to put us alongside 105 as soon as possible. We bowled down the river, out across the bay, and when near the crib ran along side and were made fast to the great iron hull that stood towering above us, and on we pushed. The wind was blowing half a gale from northeast and the sea was running higher all the time. When outside of Turtle light, the tug Roy took hold of 105 and we went ploughing through the water, and sometimes taking the furrows aboard. The Iolanthe being a staunch sea boat, behaved beautifully, but would occasionally raise her nose from the lake and bring up a chunk of water, a part of which found its way through the chain box and under the forward hatch into the bilge of the boat, until we found it necessary to start the pump. We soon battened down the hatch and coaxed the water aft over the deck and it ran into the lake again making place for fresh arrivals.

Nothing of note occurred until we were off Monroe, when, going forward, we found our tow seine chaffing in the hawse hole. This was a time for action. No way to signal the tug to slow up. The boat plunging into the sea, and the prospect of the line soon parting, our only recourse would be to make sail and trust to Providence and good luck for safety, or to drop our anchor and ride out the gale. We bent on a spare line to the already stranded one and made it fast inboard. We bent on another, about this time. One of those chunks of water struck me full in front as we reached out over the bow to make the safety line fast. The blow did not break my hold from the forestay, and save a wetting, was none the worse. The captain of 105 was signalled and made to comprehend by signs, the wind and waves making such noise that the voice could not be heard. A line was soon lowered, attached to a bit of wood which drifted to us and was soon made fast. Hardly had this been accomplished when our line parted.

On we sped in our chase, over some waves and through others, when our rudder unshipped. Still she steered well. Our course was northeast of Bar Point light, and when about two miles from the light the Roy let go and the big anchor of 105 was dropped. We were to wait for the consort, a steam whaleback, to come over from Cleveland and take us on toward our destination. Just before the anchor dropped we discovered that our rudder post was broken in two, leaving the tiller with a part on the yacht., while we had the extreme pleasure of seeing the other part go dancing away toward Port Clinton as unconcernedly as if we had no use for it. We were certainly fast to the tow boat and had our dinkey fast to the yacht, and we were as damp as we could well be and not call ourselves wet. There being nothing further to do on deck, we went below, out of the storm and regaled ourselves with bread, cheese and pie, with a sip o' whisky to keep the wet out—of our vitals and victuals. We were tossing about considerably, and the mate soon got rid of his grub and lay down to rest. Hearing an unusual noise outside, the captain moved in through the companion way on deck. His bread and cheese, as if tired of confinement, started when he did and preceded him on deck and into the water, floating over the sea in the direction of the dinkey, which had broken away and gone in search of the rudder.

We were near being orphans. As we could not catch either our small boat or the lost dinner, we turned in again and had a sound sleep. About six p. m. the steamer hove in sight, Capt. Leahey of 105 passed down a long oar. This we rigged for a rudder and soon started on our sail. The wind now shifted from northeast to north, and almost blew great guns. The sea was chopped and the air became colder. On we went at the speed of ten miles an hour with the spray flying about us, the wind howling and the rain falling. Night coming on we could see nothing but the black hulls of the whalebacks looming against the sky and the lights of passing vessels. The Idlewild came out of Detroit river with her 700 passengers and went laboring on toward Toledo. Capt. Moore told us he was glad when he landed in Toledo. Several on board his boat were sick. After entering the mouth of Detroit river our troubles were over. The water comparatively smooth, still the sail of 18 miles was tiresome. An empty stomach affords no consolation. Up the river we sped, past Grosse Isle, Mama Judy light and on up to the new summer resort, Des schree-sho-skie—pronounce it who can. The proper pronunciation is De-ra-shos-ka, and signifies in Indian "Everything before you." Now the lights of the exposition building break upon you, and ahead the pole lights of Detroit change the scene to one more homelike, and before long the engines slow down and we are near Shipman's coal dock and our journey ended.

In getting over to dock, the bowsprit of the yacht disturbed the slumbers of a Frenchman aboard a sand scow by pushing a hole through the stern of his boat's upper works. In adjusting damages the following morning, fifteen cents paid the bill. After making everything snug and partaking of a lunch of crackers and diluted whisky, we turned in for the night. The next day was rainy. We had a new rudder put in. This was a French, temporary one, and must be seen to be understood. Late in the day we sailed to the exhibition ground, where our duties lay and made fast in the river Rouge.

The haps and mishaps of our sojourn were many and peculiar. The smells from the carbon works and the sulphur springs near by when the wind was westerly, were simply immense and so odorous that they were odious, besides the sulphur vapor settled upon the white paint on the yacht and gave a color like lead. A swell from the wheel of the American Eagle drove us well upon the dock and over a bolt head, which put an inch hole through the side under the plank-shear. During our stay the Minx, of Sandusky, with a party of ladies and gentlemen, lay near us. The Shamrock and Lulu, of Toledo, with their usual merry party, kept us company for a time and took in the sights of the exhibition. Several parties of ladies favored us with short visits, and partook of the good cheer. On Saturday morning, September 9, we made sail for home. As we came in, so we started out, with rain falling and northeast wind blowing.

When off De-Shree-Shoskee we stood over too far and the yacht's foot stuck in the mud. A toot on the boat horn brought some friendly yachtsman from the shore, and after an invigorating heave at the anchor and sundry shifting of sails, we again floated, and with thanks and the wherewith for a bottle of wine to ward off the cold, we proceeded down the river. When near Amherstberg the weather looked so nasty we concluded to make fast among the Canucks and wait for the morrow. During the afternoon we visited Fort Malden and other points of interest, talked reciprocity with the natives (they are willing), and turned in early to awaken to a day which proved charming. Our sail across Lake Erie to the Muddy Maumee was without incident worthy of note. When near Turtle Light several Toledo yachts hove in sight, among them the beautiful steam yacht lately added to the fleet by Mr. Weber. When well down the bay the tug Schenck came along, took us in tow and landed us in Toledo harbor, where we picked up our mooring line, made all things snug, concluding not to grumble "when all's well that ends well."

Yours respectfully,
WHITE PENNANT,
With Red Diamond.

A TEST OF ECCENTRICITY.

Lady (to applicant)—"How much do you want a month?"

Applicant—"Do you use Pearline?"

Lady—"No, I never use it."

Applicant—"Never use it. Well, I'd rather not engage myself to you; I don't like to have anything to do with eccentric people."—From "King's Jester," N. Y.

THE HURON CASE.

WHAT YOU GET

Rand, McNally & Co.'s latest United States Map, printed in colors, covers one side, and is universally conceded to be the best published. It alone sells for $5.

Houghton's Political Map, printed in seven colors, with a number of other Maps, Diagrams and Pictures. It alone sells for $5. It covers the other side.

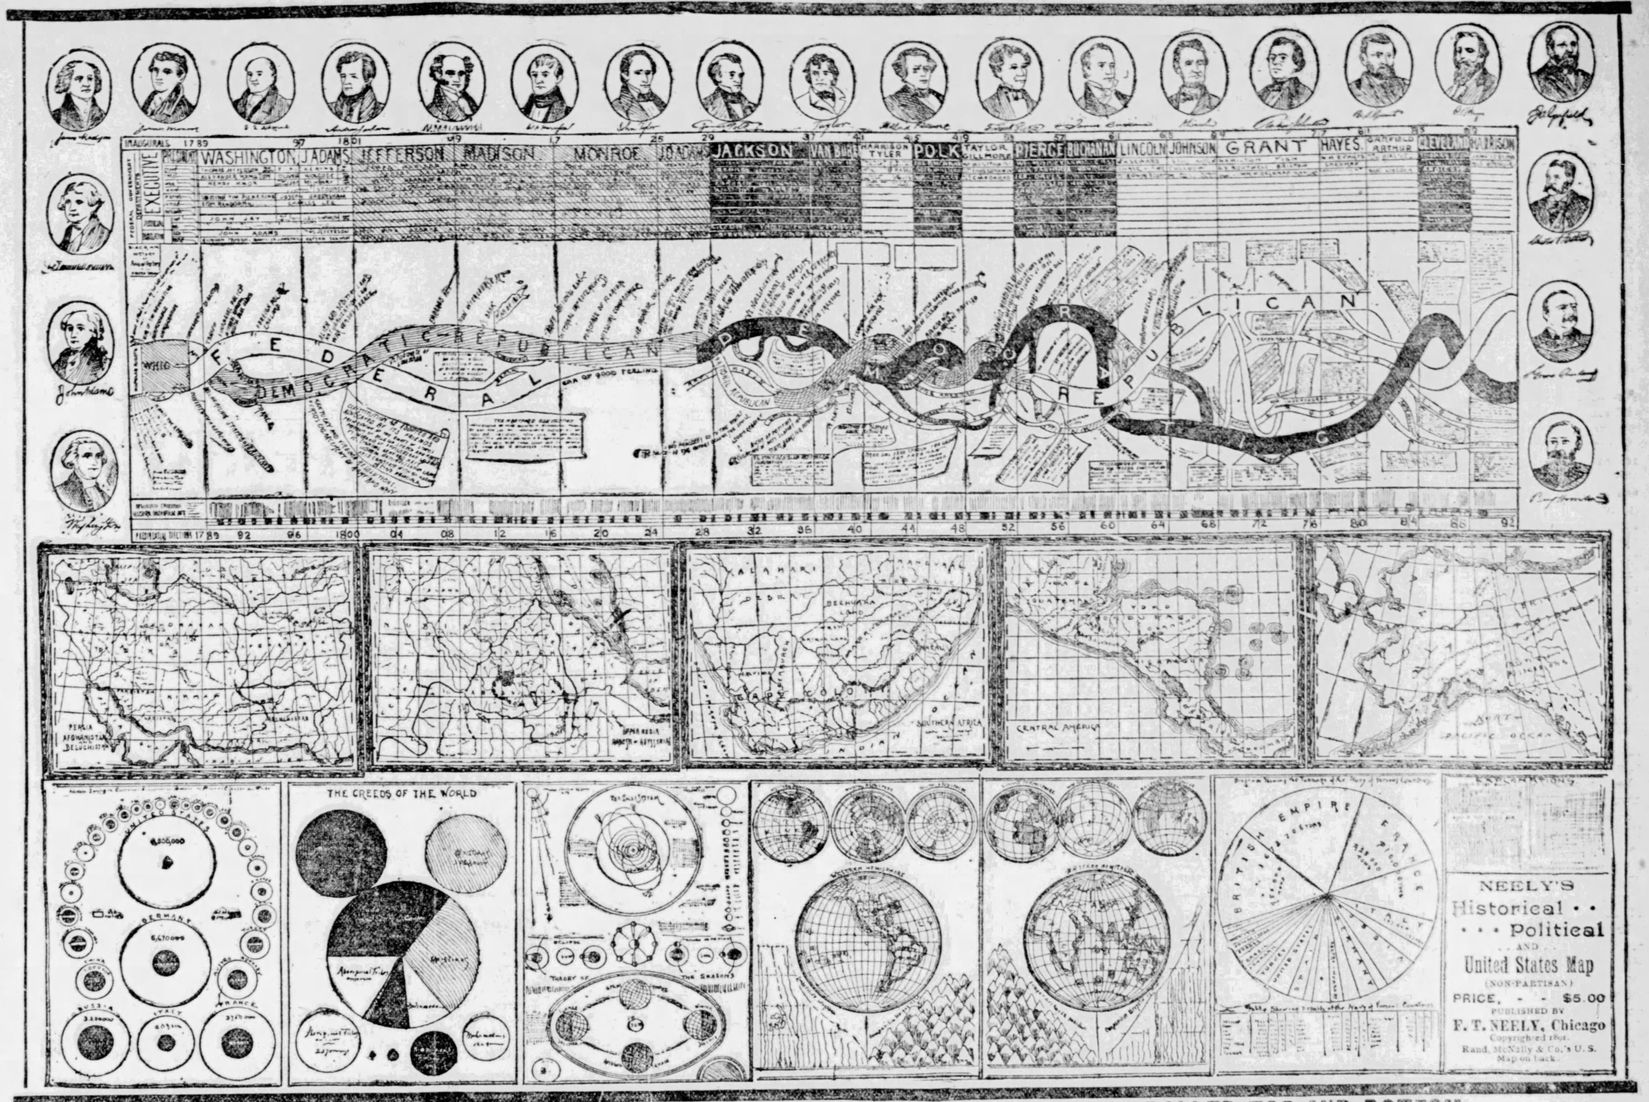
THE COMPLETE REVERSIBLE MAP is printed on both sides, is 3 feet 10 inches by 5 feet 10 inches, and is mounted on rollers, top and bottom, with tape on sides.

These two Maps, bought separately, would cost $10, and that is the regular retail price. THE BEE has made an arrangement with the publishers, by which its subscribers may obtain a copy, PREPAID by Express or Mail, on receipt of ONE DOLLAR. Be sure to name your nearest Express Office, as it is much safer to send the Map in this way, THE BEE prepays all charges, by Express or Mail, and guarantees the safe delivery of the Map without any additional cost WHATEVER.

THE BEE GUARANTEE THIS MAP to be perfectly satisfactory and in every respect equal to the above representations, and the money will be refunded to any one who desires it.

ADDRESS ALL ORDERS TO

THE BEE, - - TOLEDO, OHIO.



THE MAP IS 5 FEET 6 INCHES BY 3 FEET 10 INCHES (46x66) MOUNTED WITH ROLLER TOP AND BOTTOM.

This Engraving presents the reverse side, or Political Map. The Map of the United States on the other side does not need illustration. The entire Map is printed in eleven colors, making it very attractive. Seven colors are used on this side of the Map. It is mounted with rollers, top and bottom, and well bound with tape on sides. It is the largest map ever printed on one sheet of paper. The engraving on both sides of this map cost more than $6,000. Each Political Party seen on the attached engraving is represented on the map in a distinct color. When a Party begins, a color appears, and when the Party dissolves the colors disappears.

ARTISTIC POTTERY.

Way back into the most ancient times we find proofs that the first step in this art was known to man. In the urn which Rebecca carried to the well we see the result of the "thrower's" efforts, which are but little improved to-day; but is as far as they got for hundreds, aye thousands of years. They were unable to use any decorations because the secret of the glaze was as yet unknown to them, hence the art culminated in this shape. It remained for the genius of the last few centuries to lift it from its crudity into an unlimited field of possibilities. The discovery was made almost simultaneously by Josiah Wedgwood in England, Bernard Pallissig in France, and Frederick Bottger in Germany. The latter was an alchemist, who vaunted that he could produce gold from his chemicals. The then king of Saxony, hearing of this and foreseeing an excellent addition to his treasury department, invited him to his castle and promised him rich reward if he were successful. It was ever thus, we are rewarded if successful, but alas, for the poor genius who——, but I am getting away from my subject. Well, poor —— was soon in a pinch; after making many day's and night's experiments he could bring forth nothing that would take the place of the precious metal. The king lost his patience with him and, locking him in his laboratory, gave him a month in which to produce the promised gold or pay the penalty with his head. The time had nearly expired when one morning Bottger, upon taking up the earthen bowl in which he had been mixing his chemicals, found to his surprise that it was covered with a peculiar glassy surface. Some of the colors had clung to the bowl and were covered with this remarkable gloss. This incidental effect was requisite and finding that the glaze would not come off he meditated. He said nothing to his attendants ,but procuring an earthen vase painted a brightly colored scene of the view from his window, on one side of it, and a portrait of his majesty on the other side. The chemicals were mixed as before and the vase covered with the solution and put into the oven for 48 hours. A half hour before being led forth, as all expected, to his execution, the vase was taken from the oven, the experiment having proven successful. He did not make gold but he saved his head and gave to the world a secret which beautifies millions of homes. To-day at Maissin, 2,000 people are employed at the factory making pottery. A whole district of potteries have sprung up about the little room in which Bootger stumbled upon the subtle secret which swung him from a condemned man's cell high on to the pinnacle of fame.

With Palissy it was his energetic zeal which swung open the door to admit the light of the new discovery. He found what he believed to be the true formula and in the little kiln back of his cottage made the experiment which was the crowning point of his life. To-day Palissy's little kiln has given way to a dozen or more immense potteries employing thousands of people, and Limoges is the pottery center of France and produces the most exquisite china in the world. England owes her position in the industry to the unconquerable perseverance of Josiah Wedgwood, who knew that there must be some method by which to preserve the colors and at the same time beautify the clay. Wedgwood did not discover the secret —he conquered it. Should you go to Stoke or Trent you may see a monument erected by him to show his successor's appreciation of his worth. Wedgwood's old home is the magnet around which all the celebrated factories of England have gathered. Here we find Doulton's, Mintori's, Bloomfield's and other celebrated works. The moderns, standing as they do on the vantage ground and uniting the fruits of their forefathers with their own actual observations may be admitted to enjoy a more enlarged and comprehensive view of things than the ancients themselves. The ages which are to follow this will surpass our possibilities, but the art of to-day embodies the highest life of to-day for the use of to-day.

A RATTLING PRIZE FIGHT

Fought at the Lagrange Street Club House.

Quite a number of the sports of the city witnessed a live y eight round go last night at the Lagrange street club house between Tom Moore, of Peoria, and Jack Kerwin, of Philadelphia.

The men fought for a prize of $50 and the gate receipts, and the terms of the fight were as follows: Kerwin to stand before Moore for eight rounds, Marquis of Queensbury rules. Moore failed to knock Kerwin out and he got the money, but just after the fight terminated Detectives Manley and Carew got both of the principals, and to-day they are languishing in the city prison charged with prize fighting. Their case will be heard to-morrow.
